

Contents

Acknowledgements ix

List of illustrations x

PART ONE Studying English 1

1 Introduction 3

Your starter for ten 9

2 Reading Poetry 23

The end is nigh: reading short poems 23

Spenser's 'second hand' 31

3 Reading Fiction 37

The facts of fiction 37

The narratee 39

The narrator 40

'Site' or 'domain' 41

The narrator's fear of the narratee 44

4 Reading and Interpretation 49

Context and intertext 49

'He could not escape those very words' 51

Intertextuality and authorship 57

Dove Cottage, gender and intertextuality 59

Total textuality: 'The Lady of Shalott' 63

Current trends in interpretation 69

Four kinds of interpretation 71

'Synoptic' interpretation 74

- 5 English and Creative Writing 79
Teaching elephants: creative writing in America 79
Creative writing in UK higher education 81
Creative writing and English departments 84

- 6 English Now and Then 91
Early English in America 92
Early English in the UK 94
Early English in practice 96
Two revolutions and a 'turn' 98
Coda: English here and there 101

- 7 Online and Digital English 105
A backward glance 105
Databases and topic sites 106
Being choosy online and referencing 108
Going through the gate 112
Four sites with foresight 118

PART TWO Progressing in English 125

- 8 Literary Criticism and Literary Theory 127
A brief history of criticism 127
British and American criticism – key differences 128
'Intrinsic' and 'extrinsic' criticism 130
'Theory has landed' 132
Sonnet 73: reading with theory 134
History 135
Language 137
Gender 138
Psychoanalysis 139
Doing it deconstructively – 'HD' and Adrienne Rich 140
Contradictions 143

- Linguistic quirks and aporia 143
- Shifts 144
- Absences and omissions 145

- 9 English as Language 147
  - Stylistics 148
  - 'Shifters' and deixis 149
  - Taking a ghost for a walk 150
  - Sociolinguistics 153
  - Reading the papers 154
  - Language and gender 154
  - Jargon 156
  - Brave new words 157
  - Historical linguistics 160
  - Clandestine relationships 162
  - Meanings on the move 164
  - Borrowed words 167

- 10 English and History 171
  - How much context is there in text? 171
  - Is Keats's 'To Autumn' about Peterloo? 181
  - Is History the new English? 186

- 11 The Essay: Crossing the Four Frontiers 191
  - Description 191
  - Commentary 192
  - Discussion 193
  - Analysis 195

- 12 The Undergraduate Dissertation 199
  - Shaping the dissertation 200
  - Preliminary reading 206

13 The Text as Text 209

On avoiding textual embarrassment 209

'In two minds' – Blake and Keats 212

Searching for the one true text 219

Editorial primitivism 221

Last intentionalism 222

Syncretism 224

Populism 225

14 English at MA Level 227

Varieties of MA in English in the UK 227

Variations of teaching format 232

Scholarliness vs readability 235

Your voice and 'their' voices 237

Book chapter vs journal articles 239

Postscript 243

What Next? Annotated Bibliography 245

Index 255