

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
What this book is about	1
Plan of the book	3
1 What is ‘Postmodernism’?	6
The basic ideas	6
Modernism and structuralism	7
From structuralism to poststructuralism	9
Freud	9
Deconstruction	10
Jacques Derrida	10
Poststructuralism and postmodernism combine	14
Postmodernism in history	16
Postmodernism and history	19
Examples	23
2 The Status of Historical Evidence	27
Developments in historical evidence	27
The unbearable lightness of historical evidence	29
Dealing with documents	32
Postmodern interpretations	34
Evidence and artistry	35
Shifting orientations	37
Conclusion	39

3 Problems of Representation	41
Concepts and categorisation	42
Feminist historiography	45
Social versus cultural history	49
Language	51
Conclusion	55
4 Representation, Narrative and Emplotment	56
Deconstructing narrative	57
Hayden White	58
Emplotment in action	62
Trotsky and Deutscher	63
Other emplotments	65
Dilemmas	69
Conclusion	72
5 Michel Foucault – Representation and Power	74
Words and things	77
Epistemes	79
The iron cage	79
Knowledge and power	82
Sexuality and its discontents	85
Applications	88
Conclusion	89
6 Representation and Relativism, Cognitive and Moral	91
Jones, Joyce and Vernon	94
The polemics	97
Constructions of reality	99
Ethical relativism	100
Postcolonialism	102
Conclusion	105

7 Representation, Metanarratives and Microhistories	107
Metanarrative	107
Marxism	111
Explanation	117
Conclusion	122
Conclusion	123
Glossary	129
Notes	136
Further Reading	154
Index	158