

Contents

List of Plates	viii
Preface to the First Edition	ix
Preface to the Second Edition	xi
Preface to the Third Edition	xii
Introduction	1
Being Prejudiced in Favour of Literacy	7
Medieval, Renaissance, and Reformation Literacy	11
England's Place in Medieval Literacy	16
Part I The Making of Records	21
1 Memories and Myths of the Norman Conquest	23
The Formation of a Norman Official Memory	26
The Anglo-Saxon Heritage of Literacy	30
Latin and the Language of Domesday Book	35
William the Conqueror's Symbolic Knife	38
The Earl Warenne's Rusty Sword	41
2 The Proliferation of Documents	46
Documents at Village Level	48
The Chronology of Charter Making	54
The Output of Royal Documents	58
Documents and Bureaucracy	64
The Work of Hubert Walter	70
Royal Influence on Other Records	75
Appendix	80

3	Types of Record	83
	The Variety of Writings	83
	Statements Issued by Individuals	87
	Memoranda Kept by Institutions	94
	Learned and Literary Works	106
	Liturgical Books	111
4	The Technology of Writing	116
	The Scribe and His Materials	117
	Wax, Parchment, and Wood	120
	Committing Words to Writing	127
	Layout and Format	134
	Rolls or Books?	137
5	The Preservation and Use of Documents	147
	Monastic Documents for Posterity	148
	Secular Documents for Daily Use	151
	Archives and Libraries	156
	The Royal Archives	164
	Ways of Remembering	174
	Ways of Indexing	179
	Part II The Literate Mentality	187
	What Reading Meant	192
6	Languages of Record	199
	Walter of Bibbesworth's Treatise	199
	The Variety of Languages	202
	Spoken and Written Language	208
	Chronological Development	213
	The Writing Down of French	217
	Royal Documents in Latin, French, and English	222
7	Literate and Illiterate	226
	Meanings of 'Clericus' and 'Litteratus'	228
	The Question of the Literacy of the Laity	233
	Knowledge of Latin Among Non-Churchmen	236
	The Acquisition of Clerical Education	242
	Educated Knights	248
8	Hearing and Seeing	255
	Symbolic Objects and Documents	256
	The Spoken Versus the Written Word	262
	Listening to the Word	268
	The Spoken Word in Legal Procedure	274
	Writings as Works of Art	280
	Word and Image	285

9	Trusting Writing	295
	Memory and Writing	296
	Dating Documents	300
	Signing Documents	305
	The Symbolism of Seals and Crosses	309
	Forging Documents	318
10	Pragmatic Literacy	329
	Postscript by the Author	336
	List of Abbreviations	344
	Select Further Reading	352
	Plates	356
	Index	396