

Contents

Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xvii
Foreword	xix
I Background	1
The Reasons for Ethnic Cleansing	2
The Expulsions	7
The Flight from the Red Army	11
II The Flight and Expulsion of the German Population from East of the Oder-Neisse Line (Poland)	23
The Soviet Attack on East Germany and the Flight of the Civilian Population	23
The Soviet Attack on East Prussia	25
Stutthof Concentration Camp	26
The Flight of the Population from East Prussia	40
The Flight of the Population from West Prussia and Pomerania	47
The Flight of the Population from the Warthegau (Province of Poznan) and East Brandenburg	50
The Flight of the Population from Silesia	51
The Return of the German Population to Their Homes East of the Oder-Neisse Line	56
Deportation of German Civilians as Forced Labor to the Soviet Union	58

The Expulsion of the German Population from East of the Oder-Neisse Line	64
The Treatment of German Civilians in the Former Reich Territories	64
The Treatment of Volksdeutsche in Poland and in the Soviet Enclave of East Prussia	69
The Expulsions	75
A Summary of the Different Stages of the Expulsions	80
The Polish Government's Justification for the Expulsion of the German Population	83
The Destruction of the Polish Nation	84
The Historical Justification for the Expulsion	86
III The Expulsion of the Ethnic German Population from the Former Czechoslovakia	93
The History of German Settlements in Czechoslovakia	95
Evacuation and Flight of the Sudeten Germans from the War	101
Slovakia	101
Bohemia and Moravia	102
The Prague Uprising	114
The Condition of the German Population in Bohemia and Moravia at War's End	124
The Internment of the Sudeten Germans in Labor Camps	131
The History of the Theresienstadt (Terezin) Ghetto	137
The Czech Government's Justification for the Expulsion of the Germans	142
The Expulsion of the Sudeten Germans Prior to the Potsdam Conference	146
The Expulsion of the Sudeten Germans after the Potsdam Conference	162

IV	The Expulsion of the Ethnic German Population from Hungary	173
	Introduction	174
	The History of the German Settlements in Hungary	174
	Hungary's German Minority in World War II, Including Service in the Waffen-SS	179
	The Flight and Evacuation from the Soviet Army	185
	The Hungarian Government's Justification for the Expulsion of the German Community	189
	The Soviet Occupation of Hungary and Forced Labor in the Soviet Union	191
	The Expulsion of the Ethnic Germans	195
V	The Flight, Incarceration, and Expulsion of Ethnic Germans from the Former Republic of Yugoslavia	207
	Summary	207
	The History of the German Settlements in Yugoslavia	209
	The German Minority in World War II	212
	The Ethnic German Participation in the Waffen-SS Division "Prinz Eugen"	214
	The Evacuation and Flight of Ethnic Germans from Yugoslavia	219
	Deportation to the Soviet Union	219
	The Fate of the Ethnic German Minority in Tito's Partisan Government	224
	The Treatment of Children	231
	The Flight and Eviction of the Yugoslav German Minority	234
	The Closing of the Camps, Forced Labor, and Emigration to the German Federal Republic	238
VI	The Fate of the Ethnic German Minority in Romania	241
	The Historical Ethnic German Settlements in Romania	241
	The Transylvanian Saxons	241
	The Swabians of the Banat	243

The Inter-War Years	244
The German Minority in Romania in World War II	248
The Collapse of the Romanian Government and Soviet Occupation	249
The Evacuation of Ethnic German Civilians	255
The Fate of the German Minority after the War	261
The Deportation of Romanian Germans to the Soviet Union	261
The Confiscation of German Farms	271
The Forced Resettlement of Banat Germans	274
Developments after 1949	279
VII Conclusion: Integration and Reconciliation	283
Integration of Refugees and Expellees into German Society	283
Economic and Social Integration in West Germany	284
Political Integration	286
Integration in the Soviet Zone of Occupation	287
Reconciliation with East European Nations	288
Reconciliation with Poland	289
Reconciliation with Czechoslovakia	292
Reconciliation with Hungary	296
Relations with Romania and the Former Yugoslavia	298
Romania	299
Yugoslavia	300
Concluding Remarks	301
Appendix	303
Bibliography	317
Index	325