

Contents

- Figure list xi
About the contributors xiii
Acknowledgments xix

Introduction: Toward a comprehensive monster theory in the 21st century 1

Marina Levina and Diem-My T. Bui

1 Ontology and monstrosity 15

Amit S. Rai

PART ONE Monstrous identities 33

2 Heading toward the past: The Twilight vampire figure as surveillance metaphor 35

Florian Grandena

3 Playing alien in post-racial times 53

Susana Loza

4 Battling monsters and becoming monstrous: Human devolution
in The Walking Dead 73

Kyle W. Bishop

5 The Monster in the mirror: Reflecting and deflecting the mobility of gendered violence onscreen 87

Megan Foley

- 6 Intersectionality bites: Metaphors of race and sexuality in HBO's True Blood 99
Peter Odell Campbell
- 7 Gendering the monster within: Biological essentialism, sexual difference, and changing symbolic functions of the monster in popular werewolf texts 115
Rosalind Sibielski

PART TWO Monstrous technologies 131

- 8 Abject posthumanism: Neoliberalism, biopolitics, and zombies 133
Sherryl Vint
- 9 Monstrous technologies and the telepathology of everyday life 147
Jeremy Biles
- 10 Monstrous citizenships: Coercion, submission, and the possibilities of resistance in Never Let Me Go and Cloud Atlas 163
Roy Osamu Kamada
- 11 On the frontlines of the zombie war in the Congo: Digital technology, the trade in conflict minerals, and zombification 177
Jeffrey W. Mantz
- 12 Monsters by the numbers: Controlling monstrosity in video games 193
Jaroslav Švelch
- 13 Killing whiteness: The critical positioning of zombie walk brides in internet settings 209
Michele White

PART THREE Monstrous territories 227

- 14 Zombinations: Reading the undead as debt and guilt in the national imaginary 229

Michael S. Drake

- 15 The monster within: Post-9/11 narratives of threat and the U.S. shifting terrain of terror 243

Mary K. Bloodsworth-Lugo and Carmen R. Lugo-Lugo

- 16 The heartland under siege: Undead in the West 257

Cynthia J. Miller and A. Bowdoin Van Riper

- 17 When matter becomes an active agent: The incorporeal monstrosity of threat in Lost 273

Enrica Picarelli

- 18 Monstrous capital: Frankenstein derivatives, financial wizards, and the spectral economy 287

Ryan Gillespie

- 19 Domesticating the monstrous in a globalizing world 303

Carolyn Harford

Index 318