

||||| CONTENTS

Foreword by Steven D. Levitt, coauthor of Freakonomics and SuperFreakonomics ix

INTRODUCTION	1
Getting Beyond Assumptions. What Makes People Do What They Do?
CHAPTER 1	18
How Can You Get People to Do What You Want? When Incentives (Don't) Work and Why
CHAPTER 2	32
What Can Craigslist, Mazes, and a Ball and Bucket Teach Us About Why Women Earn Less Than Men? On the Plains Below Kilimanjaro
CHAPTER 3	49
What Can a Matrilineal Society Teach Us About Women and Competition? A Visit to the Khasi
CHAPTER 4	63
How Can Sad Silver Medalists and Happy Bronze Medalists Help Us Close the Achievement Gap? Public Education: The $627 Billion Problem
CHAPTER 5	91
How Can Poor Kids Catch Rich Kids in Just Months? A Voyage to Preschool

CHAPTER 6	108
What Seven Words Can End Modern Discrimination? I Don't Really Hate You, I Just Like Money
CHAPTER 7	129
Be Careful What You Choose, It May Be Used Against You! The Hidden Motives Behind Discrimination
CHAPTER 8	145
How Can We Save Ourselves from Ourselves? Using Field Experiments to Inform Life and Death Situations
CHAPTER 9	171
What Really Makes People Give to Charity? Don't Appeal to People's Hearts; Appeal to Their Vanity
CHAPTER 10	196
What Can Cleft Palates and Opt-Out Boxes Teach Us About People's Reasons for Giving to Charity? The Remarkable Phenomenon of Reciprocity
CHAPTER 11	212
Why Is Today's Business Manager an Endangered Species? Creating a Culture of Experimentation at Your Business
EPILOGUE	240
How to Change the World . . . or at Least Get a Better Deal Life Is a Laboratory

Acknowledgments 245

Notes 247

Index 257