

CONTENTS

List of Figures	xi
List of Tables	xv
Lincoln Institute Foreword Frank Schnidman	xvii
Preface	xix
1 METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT: A HUMAN PROBLEM	1
Birth of the Latin American Metropolis	1
Four Critical Issues	5
Social Dualism in the City	11
Economic Dualism in the City	23
Physical and Functional Frameworks	27
La Realidad Latina and New Policy Directions	37
2 RELENTLESS METROPOLITAN GROWTH AND UNBALANCED REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT	43
Categories of the Metropolis	44
Demographic Growth and Unbalanced Urbanization	47
Metropolitan Concentration: Policies and European Perspectives	59
Directions for Regional Policy-Making	64
3 HISTORICAL ROOTS OF URBANIZATION AND PLANNING	71
Overcoming the Inertia of the Past	71
The Heritage of Patrimonial Organization	73
Post-Revolutionary Influences of the Nineteenth Century	81
The Twentieth Century: The First Half	92
Mid-Century and New Directions	102
4 THE URBAN PLANNING PROCESS IN LATIN AMERICA	107
The Compelling Need for Urban Planning Institutions	107
Planning Institutions at the National and Regional Levels	111
Planning Institutions at the Municipal Level	114
Toward New Metropolitan General Plans	117
Implementation: Development Programs, Controls, and Participation	121
In Conclusion: The Failure of Central Planning	129
5 CARACAS: THE INSTANT METROPOLIS	133
The Site and Its Urban Evolution	133
People and Urban Structure	144
Caracas and National Urbanization Patterns	149
The Social Issues Underlying Metropolitan Development	153
The Economic Issues	157
Physical and Functional Problems of Urban Development	159
The National Government And Urban Planning Processes	168
The Regional Planning Role	173
Local Government Responsibilities and Metropolitan Planning	179
Metropolitan Development Policies and Programs	182

x	Urban Planning for Latin America
6	BOGOTÁ: METROPOLITAN DUALISM	199
	Los Andes, Viceroyalty, and the Two Bogotá	199
	Geography, Demography, and Settlement Patterns	207
	Urban Problems: Social, Economic, and Physical Development	217
	Institutional Systems for Planning	231
	Planning Policies and Programs in Metropolitan Bogotá	240
	A Promising Level of Planning Capability	247
7	SANTIAGO: STRUGGLE TOWARD URBAN SOCIAL CHANGE	253
	Landscape, History, and People	253
	The Metropolis and National Urbanization	265
	The Social Issues	272
	The Economic Issues	278
	The Physical Manifestations of Social and Economic Problems	280
	Organization for Urban Planning	293
	Programs and Policies at the Metropolitan Level	304
8	SÃO PAULO: THE METROPOLITAN GIANT	317
	Land, People, and Urban Structure	317
	São Paulo and the Urbanization of Brazil	330
	Social and Economic Problems in Relation to Physical Development	339
	The Urban Planning Process	353
	In Conclusion	372
9	FOUR DECADES OF URBAN PLANNING IN LATIN AMERICA: THE FUTURE?	377
	Issues and Evaluations in Perspective	377
	National and Regional Spatial Policies and Strategies	379
	Policy-Making for Metropolitan Areas through Coordinative General Plans	383
	Eight Strategies for Carrying Out Metropolitan Development Policies	385
	Strategies for Institution-Building: Key to Effective Metropolitan Planning	394
	Urban Planning as an Agent of Social Change	399
	APPENDIX: A SOURCE OF HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE ON URBAN PLANNING FOR LATIN AMERICA	407
	INDEX	419