

Contents

Preface 5

- 1 What is development? 6
 - Development as improvement 7
 - Development as growth 9
 - Development as modernization 12
 - Development as increasing welfare and quality of life 12
 - Alternative ways of defining underdevelopment 13
 - Development and underdevelopment: nice terms to hide unpleasant facts 16

- 2 The legacy of colonialism and incorporation into the world economy 20
 - Pre-conquest and conquest 20
 - Population changes 22
 - Colonial urban development 23
 - The colonial extractive economy 26
 - Mining 26
 - The large landed estate 26
 - Independence: foreign penetration and primary exports 27
 - Greater involvement in the world economy 29
 - Primary exports: the economic and social impact 31
 - Peru 31
 - South-East Brazil 33
 - The Pampas of Argentina and Uruguay 34
 - Population expansion 36
 - International migration 37
 - Natural increase 37
 - The demographic transition 38
 - The population explosion 40

- 3 The agrarian problems and dilemmas 41
 - The problem of food production 42
 - The characteristics of South American agriculture 44
 - Rural inequalities: land distribution 46
 - The disadvantages of gross inequality in land distribution 49
 - The frustrated quest for land reform 51
 - The growth of agribusiness 54
 - The impact of agribusiness 56

- 4 Dependent industrialization 58
 - The first stage of industrialization: processing exports and manufacturing consumer goods for local markets 59

- The second stage of industrialization: import-substitution 60
 - Direct government involvement 61
 - Associated problems 63
- The third stage of industrialization: export promotion and the manufacture of capital goods 65
- Industrial concentration 66
- Policies to encourage industrial dispersal 69
- The pros and cons of industrialization 71

5 Urban expansion 77

- Primacy 79
- Urban growth and inequality 80
 - Urbanization and wealth 80
 - Rural-urban migration 81
 - The distribution of income 81
- The urban economy: the two circuits 83
- The struggle for employment 86
- The struggle for housing and the rise of shanty-towns 88
- The pros and cons of urban expansion 92
 - Economic efficiency 92
 - The modernization of society 92
 - The problems associated with urban poverty 94
 - Pollution and congestion 95
 - The impact on rural areas and peripheral regions 96
 - The variety of arguments 97
- The problems of planning 97

6 The resource frontiers 101

- The hollow continent 101
- Geopolitics and national security 102
- Territorial integration and the persistence of regional inequalities 105
- The search for oil, minerals and other natural resources 106
- Pioneer colonization 109
 - Trends on the continental scale 110
 - The Brazilian expansion into Amazonia 111
 - East from the Andes 113
 - Social and economic conditions in humid tropical colonization areas 115
 - Environmental consequences of humid tropical colonization 118

7 What development? . . . and for whom? 119

- The long-term historical view 119
- Social and economic factors 120
- Political factors 122
- Environmental factors 124

Further reading 128

A selection of books in print and available in paperback in 1982