

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION TO THE DIGITAL HUMANITIES	ix
1. INTRODUCTION TO DIGITAL HUMANITIES	1
1.1. Coders	2
1.2. Pedagogues	3
1.3. Researchers	5
1.4. Creators/Users	9
2. THE SOCIAL WEB	11
2.1. Facebook	14
2.2. Google+	19
2.3. Twitter	25
2.4. Blogging/Vlogging	31
Throughout this text there are images that can be scanned with an augmented reality application* that will display augmented video interviews with experts in the field who specialize in areas related to Digital Humanities that are being discussed in that particular section. These interviews range from 5 to 15 minutes in length and supplement the information in that chapter.
3. COMMUNICATING WITH THE WORLD	41
3.1. Video Broadcasting	44
3.2. Videoconferencing	49
3.3. Audiocasting	55
3.4. Collaboration Tools	59
4. VISUALIZING THE WORLD AND ENGAGING THE FIELD	65
4.1. Virtual Reality	67
4.2. Augmented Reality	82

4.3. Gaming the Humanities	91
Throughout this text there are images that can be scanned with an augmented reality application* that will display augmented video interviews with experts in the field who specialize in areas related to Digital Humanities that are being discussed in that particular section. These interviews range from 5 to 15 minutes in length and supplement the information in that chapter.
5. ARCHIVING AND SHARING OUR RESEARCH	97
5.1. Data Archiving and Storage	99
5.2. Timelines	106
5.3. E-Portfolios	108
5.4. Presentation Applications	112
CONCLUSION	119
REFERENCES	123
INDEX	131