

CONTENTS

About the Contributors	xi
Preface	xvi
Companion Website	xix
Guided Tour	xx

PART 1 THE ORGANIZATION, THE ORGANIZATIONAL CONTEXT AND STRATEGY 1

1 An Introduction to the Organization, its Environment and Human Resource Management 3	3
Gary Rees and Paul E. Smith
Chapter overview	3
Learning objectives	3
Introduction	6
The concept of organization	6
What is HR?	7
The strategy, structure and culture debate	12
The environment	19
Linking HR to organizational strategy	20
Globalization and internationalization	25
Conclusion	27
Further reading	27
References	27
2 Strategic Approaches 30	30
Paola Pisano, Alison Rieple and Marco Pironti
Chapter overview	30
Learning objectives	30
Introduction: strategy in the twenty-first century	31
Corporate strategy and business-level strategy	32
The core areas of corporate strategy	34
The importance of HRM in strategy	45
Emergent corporate strategy	49
Emergent business strategy	56
Conclusion	66
Further reading	68
References	68

3 Strategic Human Resource Management 72
Geoffrey Wood and Zsuzsanna Kispál-Vitai

Chapter overview	72
Learning objectives	72
Introduction	73
The rise of strategic HRM	74
HR strategy in practice	75
Best practice approaches	78
Contingency approaches	86
Configurational approaches	89
Conclusion	93
Further reading	97
References	98

4 HRM: The Added Value Debate 101
Charles Leatherbarrow

Chapter overview	101
Learning objectives	101
Introduction	103
HRM and its contribution	104
The evolving nature of the HR function	105
Ulrich's contribution to the development of the HR function	108
Developing a strategic approach to HRM	112
Exploring the practicalities of strategic HRM	113
Measurement within HR	116
The Balanced Scorecard	121
The effective HR function	128
Conclusion	130
Further reading	134
References	134

PART 2 THE FUNCTIONAL ASPECTS OF HR 137

5 Recruitment and Selection 139
Stephen Taylor

Chapter overview	139
Learning objectives	139
Introduction	141
Good practice in recruitment and selection	141
Competency frameworks	145

Internal and informal recruitment	149
Employer branding	153
Headhunters and recruitment agencies	159
Selection interviews	162
Ability testing	166
Personality testing	169
Assessment centres	172
Recruitment and selection strategy	176
Conclusion	178
Further reading	179
References	179
6 Flexible Working	183
Sue Hutchinson
Chapter overview	183
Learning objectives	183
Introduction	185
Flexibility from a HRM perspective	186
The flexible firm: the employers' perspective	193
Flexibility from the employees' perspective	195
The psychological contract	198
Key forms of flexible working	202
Constraints on implementing flexible working	217
Conclusion	218
Further reading	219
References	220
7 Reward Strategy and Managing Performance	226
Geoff White
Chapter overview	226
Learning objectives	226
Introduction	229
Definitions of strategic reward	229
The change from traditional to strategic pay	231
Key underpinning reward theory	235
The major determinants of reward	239
Performance management	242
The major elements in reward	247
Total remuneration and flexibility	250
Total reward	252
Can reward be strategic?	256
Conclusion	262

Further reading	262
References	263
8 Managing the Employment Relationship	267
Moira Calveley, David Allsop and Natalia Rocha Lawton
Chapter overview	267
Learning objectives	267
Introduction	270
The meaning of the employment relationship	271
The employment relationship from different organizational perspectives	274
The role and scope of the state	277
Ideological perspectives: neo-liberalism and neo-corporatism	278
Employers and employers' associations	281
Power relations	282
Employee voice	283
Employee involvement, engagement and participation	286
Participation in action	288
Conclusion	299
Further reading	301
References	301
9 Equality and Diversity in the Workplace	306
John Neugebauer
Chapter overview	306
Learning objectives	307
Introduction	308
Definitions of equality, diversity and discrimination	308
The concept and implications of stereotyping	311
The impact of workplace discrimination for different groups	313
Legislative response to diversity and equality	328
Organization and HRM response to diversity and equality	332
Equality and diversity outlook	337
Conclusion	339
Further reading	340
References	341
10 Developing Employees and Managers	346
Jim Stewart
Chapter overview	346
Learning objectives	346

Introduction	348
Talent, talent development and HRD	350
Developing employees	360
Developing managers	368
Conclusion	375
Further reading	376
References	376

PART 3 SHRM AND THE 'BIGGER PICTURE' 381

11 Organizational Culture 383

Crystal Zhang and Paul Iles

Chapter overview	383
Learning objectives	383
Introduction	384
Culture from an anthropological perspective	386
Organizational and corporate culture	389
Symbolist approaches to organizational culture	396
The origins, determinants and effects of organizational cultures	399
Links between culture and performance	404
Moderators and mediators of the culture–performance link	406
Culture at a national level	410
Transferring HRM practices across cultural and organizational boundaries	423
The role of organizational and national culture in international mergers and acquisitions	427
Different approaches to IM&As	428
Conclusion	431
Further reading	432
References	432

12 Managing in a Global Context 440

Paul Iles and Kate E. Rowlands

Chapter overview	440
Learning objectives	440
Introduction	442
The field and context of international HRM	442
Models of IHRM	445
Strategic life-cycle models	447
Integrative models	449

Understanding the IHRM policies of the international enterprise	453
Comparative HRM: institutionalized and national business systems approaches to employee relations and national HRD	457
Composing a global workforce	464
Issues and problems in international assignments	468
Alternative forms of international working	470
Expatriate preparation: recruitment, selection, training and development	471
Developing intercultural competence	473
Repatriation training	483
Reward management and compensation	484
Global standardization and convergence in IHRM?	487
Conclusion	494
Further reading	495
References	495
13 The Future of HR	503
Linda Holbeche
Chapter overview	503
Learning objectives	503
Introduction	503
Key milestones in the development of HRM	504
Critical HRM	509
The added value debate	513
How does HR add value?	514
Common criticisms of mainstream HRM	522
So where does HR go from here?	523
What kind of 'deliverables' are fit for the future?	527
Conclusion	535
Further reading	538
References	538
Names Index	545
Subject Index	550