
Contents

	Acknowledgments	viii
1	Introduction	1
	1.1 Participation and Parent Participation	1
	1.2 The Aims of Participation	5
	1.3 Two Interpretations of Parent Participation	7
	1.4 Testing Theory by Comparison	12
	1.5 Definitions and Arrangement	18
	Notes	23
2	France	27
	2.1 Background	27
	2.2 The Parent Movement before 1968	30
	2.3 The Emergence of a Legal Framework	35
	2.4 Parent Participation in Action	39
	2.5 The Remodelling of the System	44
	2.6 The System under Socialism	48
	2.7 Balance-Sheet	53
	Notes	58
3	Italy	65
	3.1 Background	65
	3.2 Parent Participation before 1968	69
	3.3 The Emergence of a Legal Framework, 1968–74	73
	3.4 Participation in Schools	81
	3.5 Participation through District, Provincial and National Councils	90
	3.6 Balance-Sheet	95
	Notes	102
4	German Federal Republic	107
	4.1 General Approach	107

Contents

4.2	The Establishment of Parent Participation: Hamburg and Bavaria	108
4.3	The Development of Parent Participation: Hamburg and Bavaria	115
4.4	The Extension of Parent Power: Hessen	124
4.5	Parent Power and the Reorganization of Secondary Education: Hessen	129
4.6	Parent Participation in the Early Seventies: A West German Overview	131
4.7	Two Styles of Parent Power in Conflict: Hessen	134
4.8	Parents as a Conservative Force: North Rhine-Westphalia	137
4.9	Balance-Sheet	145
	Notes	151
5	England and Wales	161
5.1	Background	161
5.2	Parent Activity before 1960	165
5.3	The Sixties: A New Impetus?	173
5.4	Preconditions of Parent Participation, 1965–75	177
5.5	The Establishment of Parent Participation at Local Level, 1970–80	186
5.6	Legitimizing Parent Participation at National Level, 1975–80	194
5.7	The 1980 Act: National Legislation in Local Context	205
5.8	Balance-Sheet	212
	Notes	216
6	Conclusions	227
6.1	The Emergence of Parent Participation: A General Summary	227
6.2	The Development of Parent Participation: A General Summary	229
6.3	The Emergence of Parent Participation: Which Paradigm Provides the Better Fit?	233
6.4	The Development of Parent Participation: Which Paradigm Provides the Better Fit?	236
6.5	Future Lines of Enquiry	240
6.6	Implications for Policy Development	247
6.7	Final Remarks	249
	Notes	250

Glossary of Foreign and Technical Words and Phrases, Acronyms and Abbreviations	255
Index	275