

Contents

1	Motivation	1
2	Globalization: Empirical Overview and Theoretical Explanations	8
2.1	Empirical Overview	8
2.1.1	Foreign Direct Investment	8
2.1.2	International Transfer of Knowledge and Technology	16
2.1.3	International Trade	20
2.1.4	Conclusions	27
2.2	Approaches to the Multinational Company: A Selective Review of the Literature	28
2.2.1	Earlier Explanations of the Existence of Multinational Enterprises	29
2.2.2	The OLI Paradigm and the Transaction Cost Approach	31
2.2.3	Factor Proportion Theory	33
2.2.4	Proximity-Concentration Models	34
2.3	Building Blocs for a Model of Globalization	41
3	Multinational Enterprises in Globalization: Model and Test of the Main Assumptions	47
3.1	A Model of Multinational Enterprises in Globalization	47
3.1.1	Introduction	47
3.1.2	The Basic Model	50
3.1.3	The Strategic Decision: Trade or Production Abroad	61
3.1.4	From a National Company Equilibrium to a Multinational Enterprise Equilibrium	67
3.1.5	Welfare	69
3.1.6	Numerical Simulations	72
3.1.7	Conclusions	76
3.2	Trade in Intermediate Goods and Multinational Enterprises Networks	78
3.2.1	Related Literature	80
3.2.2	Theoretical Considerations	80

VIII Contents

3.2.3	Evidence from Cross-Section Analyses	83
3.2.4	Discussion of the Results	89
3.2.5	Time-Series Evidence	90
3.2.6	Conclusions	94
4	Explaining Country Differences in the Internationalization of Activities and the Wave Behavior in Globalization	97
4.1	Internationalization Activities When Countries Differ in Size	98
4.2	Adjustment to a New Stable Equilibrium	105
4.3	Trade Pattern under Different Market Structures	115
4.4	Conclusions	119
5	A Model with Different Sectors and Heterogeneous Companies within One Sector	122
5.1	A Multiindustry Version of the Model	123
5.2	Sectoral Concentration of the Internationalization of Activities	131
5.3	Complementarity versus Substitutionality of Exports and Production Abroad	140
5.4	On the Coexistence of National and Multinational Companies	152
5.5	Conclusions	159
6	Modeling Globalization: The Three-Country Version	162
6.1	The Three-Country Model Version	163
6.2	Exports and Production Abroad in a Globalizing World	166
6.3	Different Distances between Countries in a Multipolar World	175
6.4	Conclusions	179
7	Summary and Conclusions	181
8	Appendix	186
8.1	Appendix A: Model Calculations	186
8.2	Appendix B: Description of the Parameters	197
8.3	Appendix C: Empirical Analysis	199
	References	201
	Index	210