Contents

1 Introduction: The Political Process of Policymaking 1
- 1.1 Definitional activities in public policy 4
- 1.2 Exploring the political question 5
- 1.3 An activity that is essentially political 9

2 Creating Social Disorder: Constructing, Propagating and Policitising Social Problems 12
- 2.1 A pragmatic approach to public problems 13
- 2.2 Definitional struggles around unacceptable problems 21
- 2.3 Conclusion 40

3 Defining Solution: A Complex Bricolage to Solve Public Problems 42
- 3.1 Between stratagem and cognitive bricolage: the contribution of Simon and Lindblom 43
- 3.2 From cognitive bricolage to language games 52
- 3.3 The five couplings in defining solutions 74
- 3.4 From coupling to restoring political order 86
- 3.5 Conclusion 92

4 Propagating Solution: Argumentative Strategies to Cement Coalitions 93
- 4.1 Arguing to persuade 94
- 4.2 Discussion as a test of persuasion strategies 116
- 4.3 From persuasion to diffusion, building discursive coalitions 129
- 4.4 Conclusion 137

5 Policy Statements to Legitimise "Decision Makers" 139
- 5.1 The paradoxes of taking positions into account 140
- 5.2 The definitional issues of a topography of positions 149
- 5.3 The "decision" to fix topographies within statements 160
- 5.4 An empirical example of decision: political decision making of the Paris tramway 171
- 5.5 Conclusion 185

6 Conclusion: How Public Policy Shapes Politics 187

Zittoun, Philippe
The political process of policymaking
2014

digitalisiert durch:
IDS Luzern

Notes 193

Bibliography 200

Index 209