

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
Critical Approaches to Chicano/a Literature	5
Chapter One: Criticism and Minority Discourse	49
History, the Unconscious and Psychoanalysis	50
Subjectivity, Community and the Representation of Ethnicity	58
Postcolonialism and Representations of Minority Discourse	70
Chapter Two: Unwelcome Reminders, Welcome Reminders	85
The Puritan Allegory and the Primal Scene of Repression	86
The Allegory of National Community: The Melting Pot	88
Ethnicity and the Real	94
Ethnic Melting Pots	98
Chicano/a Culture, Movement Ideology and Community	104
Chapter Three: Para los que piensan con la verga	115
Chicano Master Narratives: "Corky" Gonzales and José Montoya	116
Chicano Master Narratives: Gary Soto and Jimmy Santiago Baca	125
Situating Chicana Feminist Poetry	129
Chicana Poetry and Community: Rewriting/Rereading Ethnicity	154
Chapter Four: Changing the Subject	167
The Deferral of Chicana Identities	169
Drama and Community	177
Chicano/a Community and Drama	183
Giving Up the Ghost and Novena Narrativas	199
Chapter Five: A Family Affair	217
Chicano/a Family, the Nuclear Model and Representation	218
Mama Chona, Authority and the Oedipal Narrative	225
Miguel Chico's Anti-Oedipal Narrative	237
Embracing the Monster	247
Conclusion	251
Notes	261
Works Cited	287