

TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of Tables and Figures	v
Foreword	x
CHAPTER 1: THE FARMING LANDSCAPE OF EARLY MEDIEVAL IRELAND	1
By Finbar McCormick, Aidan O’Sullivan and Thomas R. Kerr
Introduction	1
Fields and the Organisation of the Farming Landscape	2
Fencing	2
Enclosure as an Indicator of Arable Land	3
Archaeological Evidence for Field Boundaries and Enclosures	4
Fields at Rathes/Ringforts/Cashels	4
Fields at Settlements with Attached Enclosures	12
Fields and Enclosures: Conclusions	20
Tools and Tillage	21
Plough and Harrow	21
Hand Tools	22
Cereal Production and Processing	24
Introduction	24
Grain Processing	26
Cereal-drying Kilns	27
The Location of Kilns	30
Kilns and Associated Features	30
Mills and Milling	34
Early Medieval Horizontal and Vertical Mills	34
Livestock Farming	37
Conclusion	38
CHAPTER 2: THE PLANT REMAINS FROM EARLY MEDIEVAL IRELAND	39
by Meriel McClatchie
Introduction	39
Research Background	39
Methodology	40
Selection of Sites	40
Recording of Data	40
Sites Analysed	41
Analyses	41
Relative Occurrence of Different Cereal Types	41
Relative Dominance of Cereal Types	44
Relative Occurrence of Non-Cereal Crops and Wild Plants	46
Discussion	47
Overview	47
Cereals	47
Non-Cereal Crops: Flax and Legumes	48
Potentially Managed and Wild Plants	49
Future Potential and Conclusions	49
CHAPTER 3: THE ANIMAL REMAINS FROM EARLY MEDIEVAL IRELAND	61
by Thomas R. Kerr
Literature Background	61
Zooarchaeological Background	62
Archaeological Record	63

(1) Do the faunal remains indicate a change in the composition of the farming economy in Ireland during the early medieval period?	66
(2) Do the faunal remains indicate a regional pattern in the farming economy in Ireland during the early medieval period?	85
(3) Do the faunal remains indicate a change in the size of domesticates in Ireland during the early medieval period?	90
(4) Can the age/death pattern of the cattle bones be related to changes in farming practice?	92
(5) Can the age/death pattern of the sheep bones be related to changes in farming practice?	97
Discussion	99
APPENDIX 1: PLANT REMAINS GAZETTEER	101
by Meriel McClatchie
APPENDIX 2: ANIMAL REMAINS GAZETTEER	305
by Thomas R. Kerr
BIBLIOGRAPHY	666