Foreword: The Failure of Education’s First Mobile Device	xi
Dr. Michael Searson School for Global Education & Innovation, Kean University President, Society for Information Technology & Teacher Education (SITE)
Preface	xv
SECTION 1: The Emerging Role of Mobile Learning	2
Chapter 1—Considering the Potential of Connected Mobile Learning	8
James Mundie Manager of Educational Technology or World Campus, Penn State University
Dr. Simon Hooper Associate Professor, Learning, Design, and Technology, Penn State University
Chapter 2—Paradigms of Use, Learning Theory, and App Design	20
Dr. Vanessa P. Dennen Associate Professor, Instructional Systems, Florida State University
Shuang Hao Doctoral Candidate, Instructional Systems, Florida State University
Chapter 3—Rich Remote Learning and Cognition: Analog Methods as Models for Newer Technology	42
Dr. Brad Hokanson Professor, Graphic Design, University of Minnesota; Associate Dean for Research and Outreach, College of Design, University of Minnesota
Chapter 4—The Logic of the “And”: The Nature of Collaboration	56
Bobby George Co-founder, The Baan Dek Montessori, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Co-founder, Montessorium (http://montessorium.com)
June George Co-founder, The Baan Dek Montessori, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Co-founder, Montessorium (http://montessorium.com)

Chapter 5—“Apping” its Way into the Future?: K–12 English Education	66
Dr. Cassandra Scharber Assistant Professor, Learning Technologies, University of Minnesota; Co-Director, LT Media Lab, University of Minnesota
SECTION 2: Mobile Learning Design Guidelines and Frameworks	80
Chapter 6—Seven Design Considerations for Mobile Learning Applications	86
Lucas Lecheler Lead Developer, Learning Technologies Media Lab, University of Minnesota Bradford Hosack Lead Designer, Learning Technologies Media Lab, University of Minnesota
Chapter 7—The Future of Mobile Media for Learning	104
Dr. Seann M. Dikkers Assistant Professor, Educational Technology, Ohio University; Director, Gaming Matter
Chapter 8—A Framework for Mobile Learning App Design: DCALE	120
Donggil Song Doctoral student, Instructional Systems Technology Program, Indiana University School of Education; Educational Research Manager, Seeds of Empowerment; Associate Instructor, Indiana University School of Education
SECTION 3: Mobile Learning Design and Development Narratives	138
Chapter 9—Playing with Gravity: On Designing for Children	144
Bobby George Co-founder, The Baan Dek Montessori, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Co-founder, Montessorium (http://montessorium.com) June George Co-founder, The Baan Dek Montessori, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Co-founder, Montessorium (http://montessorium.com)
Chapter 10—HotSeat: Learning and Designing on the Move	158
Nathan Edwards E-Assessment Designer, Learning Technologies Media Lab, University of Minnesota Jason Nyquist MEd student, Learning Technologies, University of Minnesota

Chapter 11—The Conceptualization, Design, and Development of a K–12 Adventure Learning App	172
Jeni Henrickson PhD Candidate, Learning Technologies, University of Minnesota
SECTION 4: Mobile Learning Integration, Research, and Evaluation	188
Chapter 12—Delineation of Evaluation Criteria for Educational Apps in STEM Education	192
Dr. Brad McLain Director, XSci: Experiential Science Education Research Collaborative, University of Colorado, Denver
Chapter 13—Accessibility Evaluation of iOS Apps for Education	208
Kari Kumar Lecturer, Faculty of Health Sciences, University of Ontario Institute of Technology
Dr. Ron Owston Director, Institute for Research on Learning Technologies, York University, Canada; Professor, Education, York University, Canada
Chapter 14—Mobile Data Tools for Teachers: A Design-based Research Pilot Study	226
Suzanne Rhodes PhD student, Department of Educational Psychology, University of Wisconsin–Madison
Chapter 15—iPad-Didactics—Didactical Designs for iPad-classrooms: Experiences from Danish Schools and a Swedish University	242
Dr. Isa Jahnke Professor, Department of Applied Educational Science, Umea University, Sweden
Dr. Swapna Kumar Clinical Assistant Professor, College of Education, University of Florida
Chapter 16—Going Mobile in Science Teacher Education	258
Dr. Evrim Baran Assistant Professor, Curriculum and Instruction, Middle East Technical University
Dr. Samia Khan Associate Professor, Science Education, University of British Columbia

Chapter 17—Librarian Technology Leadership in the Adoption of iPads in a High School	276
Renata Geurtz PhD candidate, Department of Curriculum and Instruction, University of Texas, Austin
Carolyn Foote “Techno” Librarian, Westlake High School, Austin, Texas
Chapter 18—iTeach and iLearn with iPads in Secondary English Language Arts	292
Gregory Russell PhD student, Learning Technologies, University of Texas, Austin
Dr. Joan Hughes Associate Professor, Learning Technologies, University of Texas, Austin
Chapter 19—Teacher Resiliency (Problem Solving) and Handheld Computing	308
Dr. Rita Hagevik Director of Graduate Studies, Science Education, University of North Carolina at Pembroke
Dr. Irina Falls Associate Professor, School of Education, University of North Carolina at Pembroke
Heather Higgins Lynn Postdoctoral Fellow, Education Policy Initiative, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
Chapter 20—iPad-enabled Experiments in an Undergraduate Physics Laboratory	334
Dr. Roberto Ramos Associate Professor, Physics, Indiana Wesleyan University
Dr. Christopher Devers Director of Research, Center for Learning and Innovation, Indiana Wesleyan University; Assistant Professor, Indiana Wesleyan University
SECTION 5: The Future of Mobile Learning	354
