Contents

Abbreviations and References xxi

1. Ricoeur's Architectonic of Moral Religion 1
1. Ricoeur's Hermeneutics of Ethical Life 1
1.1 Opening Remarks 1
1.2 The Aims of the Book 4
1.3 The Claims of the Book 5
2. The Later Ricoeur's 'Religion' of Human Capability 7
2.1 The Later Ricoeur 7
2.2 The Capable Human 9
2.3 Human Capacities 10
2.4 The Ground of Being 10
2.5 Ricoeur's 'philosophical theology' 12
3. Ricoeur's Architectonic 15
3.1 Spinoza, Aristotle, Kant 15
3.2 Hermeneutics of Ethical Life 18
3.3 Moral Religion 19

2. Reading Religion as Metaphysical Life in Spinoza 21
1. Introduction 21
2. Core Concepts for Religion as Metaphysical Life 23
2.1 Substance or God 23
2.2 God or Nature 27
3. Conatus and Ethical Life 30
3.1 Rational Striving 31
3.2 Understanding Life 33
3.3 Ethical Life 35
4. Spinoza in the Later Ricoeur 37
5. Spinoza and Kant 40
5.1 Freedom 40
5.2 The Individual 43
5.3 Ethology 44
6. Coda: Reading Philosophy 46

3. Reading Religion as Anthropological Life in Aristotle 49
1. Aristotle's Anthropology 50

Carter, James
Ricoeur on moral religion
2014

digitalisiert durch:
IDS Luzern

2. The Pursuit of the Good Life in Aristotle 54
2.1 Eudaimonia: The Good Life 54
2.2 Orexis: (Rational) Desire 56
3. The Good Life in Aristotle 57
3.1 The Good Life and Human Capacities 57
3.2 The Fragility of the Good Life and the Vulnerability of Human Capacities 59
4. Friendship in Aristotle and Ricoeur 64
4.1 Friendship, Ethics, and the Good Life 64
4.2 Friendship and the Vulnerable Human in Aristotle and Ricoeur 70

4. Reading Religion as Moral Life in Kant 74
1. The Categorical Imperative 77
2. Radical Evil 80
2.1 The Human Will 80
2.2 The Propensity to Evil 81
3. Kantian Virtue 82
4. Kant's Humanity 86
4.1 The Strenuous Way of Virtue 86
4.2 'Original Innocence' 88
4.3 Kant and Rousseau: Unsociable Sociability 90
5. Kant's Moral Religion 95
5.1 The Moral Law Within 95
5.2 Historical Religions and Moral Religion 95
5.3 Hope in the Common Rational Pursuit of the Good Life 98
6. Kant's Place in Ricoeur's Architectonic 99
6.1 Spinoza and Kant 99
6.2 Aristotle and Kant 101

5. The Reflexive Autonomy of Ricoeur 103
1. Introduction 103
1.1 Reflexive Autonomy: Ricoeur's 'ethical vision of the world' 105
1.2 From Reflexive Philosophy to Moral Religion: A Sketch 107
2. Ricoeur's Hermeneutics of Selfhood 109
2.1 The Detour of Reflection by Way of a Hermeneutical Analysis 109
2.2 The Dialectic of idem and ipse 110

2.3 Attesting to Oneself Inasmuch as Other 111
2.4 Capability, Self-Esteem, and Solicitude: A Tripartite Dialectic 113
3. Ricoeur's Post-Hegelian Kantian Hermeneutics 116
3.1 Hermeneutics and Metaphysics 116
3.2 Ricoeur's post-Hegelian Return to Kant 120
3.3 Ricoeur's Hermeneutics: post-Hegelian or post-Kantian? 122
4. Autonomy and the Reflexive Self 126
4.1 Ricoeur's Autonomous Agent 126
4.2 Reflexive Autonomy 128
5. Reflexive Autonomy and Ethical Life 129
5.1 Reflexive Autonomy in Ricoeur's little ethics 129
5.2 Reflexive Autonomy in the Later Ricoeur 131
6. Reflexive Autonomy and Moral Religion 132
6.1 Ethics and Metaphysics 132
6.2 Reflexive Autonomy and Ricoeur's Architectonic of Moral Religion 133

6. A Hermeneutics of Ethical Life 135
1. Opening Remarks: The Aims and Claims of the Book 135
2. The Key Features of Ricoeur's Moral Religion 138
3. Hermeneutics 140
3.1 A Critical Method 140
3.2 A Kantian Structure 142
4. The Ethical Aim of Ricoeur's Moral Religion 144
5. Situating Ricoeur's Moral Religion 145
5.1 Ricoeur Studies 145
5.2 Contemporary Philosophy of Religion 150

Concluding Remarks: Living up to Death 152

Bibliography 157
Works by Ricoeur: Writings and Interviews 157
Other Works 159
Index 167