

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Notes on contributors	ix
Introduction Elisabeth Bronfen and Beate Neumeier	1
Part I Shakespearean hauntings
1 Yorick's skull John Drakakis	17
2 Beyond reason: Hamlet and early modern stage ghosts Catherine Belsey	32
3 'What do I fear? Myself?': nightmares, conscience and the 'Gothic' self in Richard III Per Sivefors	55
4 Queen Margaret's haunting revenge: the Gothic legacy of Shakespeare's Wars of the Roses Elisabeth Bronfen	75
Part II Gothic Renaissance theatre
5 Vision and desire: fantastic Renaissance spectacles Beate Neumeier	95
6 From grotesque to Gothic: Ben Jonson's Masque of Queenes Lynn S. Meskill	113
Part III Gothic textuality in the early modern period
7 Exhumations: scopophobia in Renaissance texts Duncan Salkeld	139
8 Bright hair and brittle bones – Gothic affinities in metaphysical poetry Ulrike Zimmermann	152
9 Vampirism in the Bower of Bliss Garrett Sullivan	167
10 Ghostly authorities and the British popular press Andrea Brady	180

Part IV Persistence of the Gothic

11	Monstrous to our human reason: minding the gap in The Winter's Tale Richard Wilson	199
12	Shakespeare, Ossian and the problem of 'Scottish Gothic' Dale Townshend	218
13	The rage of Caliban: Dorian Gray and the Gothic body Andreas Höfele	244
	Index	265