

Contents

Notes on contributors	page viii
Acknowledgements	xiv
Shakespeare and the digital world: Introduction Christie Carson and Peter Kirwan	1
PART I DEFINING CURRENT DIGITAL SCHOLARSHIP AND PRACTICE: SHAKESPEARE RESEARCH IN THE DIGITAL AGE
Introduction Christie Carson	10
1 Shakespeare in the digital humanities John Lavagnino	14
2 Getting back to the library, getting back to the body Bruce R. Smith	24
3 Sensing the past: Tablets and early modern scholarship Farah Karim-Cooper	33
4 Webs of engagement David McInnis	43
PART II DEFINING CURRENT DIGITAL SCHOLARSHIP AND PRACTICE: SHAKESPEARE PEDAGOGY AND THE DIGITAL AGE
Introduction Peter Kirwan	58
5 Internal and external Shakespeare: Constructing the twenty-first-century classroom Erin Sullivan	63

- 6 Shakespeare at a distance 75
Sarah Grandage and Julie Sanders
- 7 'All great Neptune's ocean': iShakespeare and play in a transatlantic context 87
Sheila T. Cavanagh and Kevin A. Quarmby
- 8 'From the table of my memory': Blogging Shakespeare in/out of the classroom 100
Peter Kirwan

HALF-TIME: A PAUSE FOR REFLECTION

- 9 All's well that ends Orwell 115
Sharon O'Dair

PART III REDEFINING THE BOUNDARIES AND PRACTICES OF SHAKESPEARE STUDIES ONLINE: PUBLISHING AND ACADEMIC IDENTITY

- Introduction 128
Peter Kirwan
- 10 Unlocking scholarship in Shakespeare studies: Gatekeeping, guardianship and open-access journal publication 132
Eleanor Collins
- 11 Living with digital incunables, or a 'good-enough'
 Shakespeare text 144
Katherine Rowe
- 12 Shakespeare in virtual communities 160
Peter Holland
- 13 Gamekeeper or poacher? Personal blogging/public sharing 176
Sylvia Morris

PART IV REDEFINING THE BOUNDARIES AND PRACTICES OF SHAKESPEARE STUDIES ONLINE: COMMUNICATION AND PERFORMANCE

- Introduction 188
Christie Carson

14	Changing a culture with the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust: Championing freedom and democracy Paul Edmondson and A. J. Leon	193
15	Developing a digital strategy: Engaging audiences at Shakespeare's Globe Ryan Nelson	202
16	The impact of new forms of public performance Stephen Purcell	212
17	Creating a critical model for the twenty-first century Christie Carson	226
	Conclusion: Digital dreaming Christie Carson and Peter Kirwan	238
	Index	258