

TABLE OF CONTENTS

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Preface.....   | ix  |
| 1. Introduction.....                                   | 1   |
| 1.1. The Comparative Method.....                       | 1   |
| 1.2. Phonological Reconstruction.....                  | 2   |
| 1.21. Phonemic Inventory.....                          | 2   |
| 1.22. The Regularist Assumption.....                   | 2   |
| 1.23. Interfering Factors.....                         | 5   |
| 1.3. The Nature of Proto-Romance.....                  | 9   |
| 1.31. Vulgar Latin, Common Romance, Proto-Romance..... | 9   |
| 2. The Phonemic Inventory of Proto-Romance.....        | 15  |
| 2.1. Languages Compared.....                           | 15  |
| 2.11. Abstract Considerations.....                     | 15  |
| 2.12. Comparative Tables.....                          | 15  |
| 2.2. Prosodic Features.....                            | 17  |
| 2.3. Vowels.....                                       | 18  |
| 2.31. Phonological Components.....                     | 18  |
| 2.32. Individual Phonemes.....                         | 20  |
| 2.4. Semi-Vowels.....                                  | 57  |
| 2.41. Phonological Components.....                     | 57  |
| 2.42. Individual Phonemes.....                         | 57  |
| 2.5. Consonants.....                                   | 61  |
| 2.51. Phonological Components.....                     | 61  |
| 2.52. Individual Phonemes.....                         | 62  |
| 2.6. Vowel-Clusters and Diphthongs.....                | 90  |
| 2.61. Vowel-Clusters.....                              | 90  |
| 2.62. Diphthong.....                                   | 92  |
| 2.7. Clusters of Two Consonants.....                   | 94  |
| 2.71. Homosyllabic.....                                | 94  |
| 2.72. Ambisyllabic.....                                | 109 |
| 2.721. Double (Geminate).....                          | 109 |
| 2.722. Other.....                                      | 120 |
| 2.8. Clusters of Three Consonants.....                 | 157 |
| 2.81. Not Palatalised or Labialised.....               | 157 |
| 2.811. Ending in /r/.....                              | 158 |
| 2.812. Ending in /l/.....                              | 163 |
| 2.813. Other.....                                      | 167 |
| 2.82. Ending in /i/.....                               | 168 |
| 2.821. Double Consonant + /i/.....                     | 168 |
| 2.822. Consonant + /ri/.....                           | 170 |
| 2.823. Consonant + /ti/.....                           | 171 |
| 2.824. Consonant + /kj/.....                           | 173 |

TABLE OF CONTENTS

|   |                    |
|---|--------------------|
| 2.825. Consonant + /dʒ/.....                              | 174 <sup>bis</sup> |
| 2.826. Consonant + /ʒ/.....                               | 175                |
| 2.83. Ending in /u:/.....                                 | 175                |
| 3. Proto-Romance and Latin.....                           | 177                |
| 3.1. Every-Day and Literary Latin.....                    | 177                |
| 3.2. From Gracchan Latin to Proto-Romance.....            | 178                |
| 3.21. Vowels.....   | 178                |
| 3.22. Diphthongs.....                                     | 179                |
| 3.23. Single Consonants.....                              | 180                |
| 3.24. Consonant-Clusters.....                             | 180                |
| 3.25. Stress.....   | 181                |
| 4. Major Developments in Early Romance.....               | 185                |
| 4.1. Earliest Divisions.....                              | 185                |
| 4.11. The Development of Proto-Romance /i/.....           | 185                |
| 4.12. The Development of Proto-Romance /u/.....           | 187                |
| 4.13. Syncope.....  | 188                |
| 4.2. Further Early Developments in Vocalism.....          | 189                |
| 4.21. Umlaut.....   | 189                |
| 4.22. Diphthongisation.....                               | 190                |
| 4.23. Systemic Amplifications.....                        | 192                |
| 4.24. Systemic Reductions.....                            | 193                |
| 4.3. Early Developments in Consonantism.....              | 194                |
| 4.31. Assimilation.....                                   | 194                |
| 4.32. Palatalisation.....                                 | 195                |
| 4.33. Labialisation.....                                  | 198                |
| 4.34. Simplification of Geminates.....                    | 198                |
| 4.35. Lenition.....                                       | 199                |
| 4.4. Prosodic Features.....                               | 200                |
| 4.5. Sporadic Sound-Changes.....                          | 200                |
| 4.51. Dissimilation.....                                  | 200                |
| 4.52. Metathesis.....                                     | 201                |
| 4.53. Haplography.....                                    | 201                |
| 4.6. Phonological Effects of Analogical Substitution..... | 201                |
| 4.7. Borrowings.....                                      | 202                |
| 4.71. Sources.....  | 202                |
| 4.72. Effects on Phonological Systems.....                | 202                |
| Appendix I. Further Phonological Tables.....              | 207                |
| Appendix II. List of Proto-Romance Words.....             | 267                |
| References.....   | 283                |
| Index.....  | 295                |