

Contents

Preface	v
Acknowledgements	vii
IPA chart	viii
1 The roots of English	1
2 The spread of English	6
3 Variation in English	11
3.1 Linguistic diversity and diffusion	11
3.2 Types of variation in form	14
3.3 Variation in historical origin and evolution	31
3.4 Dimensions of classification	32
4 The inner circle	44
4.1 England	47
4.2 Wales/Cymru	55
4.3 Scotland	61
4.4 Ireland	71
4.5 The USA	79
4.6 Canada	90
4.7 Australia	100
4.8 New Zealand/Aotearoa	107
4.9 South Africa	114
4.10 Liberia	119
4.11 The Caribbean	120
4.12 Some 'lesser-known' minor varieties of English	127
5 The outer circle	134
5.1 Social and political issues surrounding the use of English in the outer circle	134
5.2 Some common features of the 'New Englishes'	137
5.3 South Asia: India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, etc.	143
5.4 Africa	152
5.5 South-East Asia	169
5.6 Others	181
6 The expanding circle	186
6.1 The rise of English in the expanding circle	186
6.2 Domains for English	189
6.3 English in lingua-franca situations	197
6.4 The possibility of expanding-circle Englishes and two examples	202
6.5 How English might be affecting other languages	208
6.6 Implications for the choice of school variety	211

7 Beyond the circles	213
7.1 Cross-currents in attitudes to English in the world	213
7.2 What's next?	216
Glossary of linguistic terms	221
References	230
Index	249