

CONTENTS

Preface viii

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

- 1 Thomas Hardy (1840–1928): “Channel firing”;
“In time of ‘the breaking of nations’” 23
A. E. Housman (1859–1936): A Shropshire Lad
XXXV—“On the idle hill of summer” 32
- 2 Alys Fane Trotter (1863–1961): “The hospital visitor” 37
Eva Dobell (1867–1973): “In a soldier’s hospital I:
Pluck”; “In a soldier’s hospital II: Gramophone tunes” 42
- 3 Charlotte Mew (1869–1928): “May, 1915” 51
James Weldon Johnson (1871–1938): “To America” 56
John McCrae (1872–1918): “In Flanders fields” 59
- 4 Edward Thomas (1878–1917): “Tears”; “Rain” 63
Eleanor Farjeon (1881–1965): “Now that you too must shortly go the way” 71
- 5 Margaret Sackville (1881–1963): “A memory” 75
Sara Teasdale (1884–1933): “There will come soft rains” 79

- 6 Siegfried Sassoon (1886–1967): “They”;
 “The rear-guard”; “The glory of women”;
 “Atrocities” 83
- 7 Rupert Brooke (1887–1915): “Nineteen fourteen:
 The soldier”; “Nineteen fourteen: The dead” 101
 Teresa Hooley (1888–1973): “A war film” 110
 Claude McKay (1889–1948): “The little peoples” 115
- 8 Isaac Rosenberg (1890–1918): “Break of day in the trenches”; “Louse hunting”;
 “Returning, we hear the larks” 121
 Leon Gellert (1892–1977): “A night attack”;
 “Anzac Cove” 133
- 9 Marian Allen (1892–1953): “The wind on the downs” 143
 Vera Brittain (1893–1970): “To my brother
 (In memory of July 1st, 1916)” 148
 Margaret Postgate Cole (1893–1980):
 “The veteran” 153
- 10 Wilfred Owen (1893–1918): “Anthem for doomed youth”; “Arms and the boy”; “Disabled”; “Dulce et Decorum Est”; “Futility”; “Strange meeting” 159
- 11 E. E. Cummings (1894–1962): “I sing of Olaf”;
 “My sweet old etcetera” 189
 David Jones (1895–1974): In Parenthesis
 (excerpt from Section VII) 199

12 The kinds of questions different critics ask 203

Works cited 223

Further reading 225

Permissions 227

Index of theories and applications 229