

Contents

Foreword by Timothy A. Pychyl, PhD	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction: Why Do We Procrastinate?	1
1 Everyone Procrastinates, but Not Everyone Is a Procrastinator	13
2 “I’m Better under Pressure”: The Arousal Procrastinator Myth	43
3 Indecision: Decisional Procrastination	59
4 Why Self-Regulation Fails: How You’re Your Own Worst Enemy	75
5 Perfection Is Pure Fiction	91
6 Does Technology Make It Easier to Procrastinate?	101
7 Why the Time of Day and the Tasks That Need to Be Done Matter to Procrastinators	115

8	The Three R's of Procrastination: Reactance, Revenge, and Regret	135
9	Social Support: Getting By with a Little Help from My Friends	147
10	Academic Procrastination: Why Students Delay, and How It Affects the Rest of Their Lives	165
11	Procrastination at Work	183
12	Procrastination and Personality Styles	203
	Conclusion: Where Do You Go Next—and Can You Get There from Here?	213
	References	221
	Index	231