

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
Framing Black British Drama: Past to Present Mary F. Brewer, Lynette Goddard, Deirdre Osborne	1
Part I Post-War Migration
1 The Social and Political Context of Black British Theatre: 1950s–80s Helen Thomas	17
2 Identity Politics in the Plays of Mustapha Matura Brian Crow	32
3 Staging Social Change: Three Plays by Barry Reckord Mary F. Brewer	47
4 Home/lessness, Exile and Triangular Identities in the Drama of Caryl Phillips Suzanne Scafe	62
Part II Second Generation
5 The Social and Political Context of Black British Theatre: 1980s –90s Meenakshi Ponnuswami	79
6 Looking Back: Winsome Pinnock’s Politics of Representation Nicola Abram	95
7 (Black) Masculinity, Race and Nation in Roy Williams’ Sports Plays Lynette Goddard	112
8 Kwame Kwei-Armah’s African American Inspired Triptych Michael Pearce	128

Part III Neo-Millennial

9	The Social and Political Context of Black British Theatre: The 2000s D. Keith Peacock	147
10	Resisting the Standard and Displaying Her Colours: debbie tucker green at British Drama's Vanguard Deirdre Osborne	161
11	Bola Agbaje: Voicing a New Africa on the British Stage Ekua Ekumah	178
12	Witnessing to, in, and from the Centre: Oladipo Agboluaje's Theatre of Dialogic Centrism Victor Ukaegbu	194
	Bibliography	210
	Index	229