

CONTENTS

SECTION	Page
1. Procedure of Investigation . . . . .	1
2. The Relationship between Auditory and Instrumental Analyses . . . . .	3
2.1. Auditory Analyses . . . . .	3
2.1.1. Early British Studies . . . . .	3
2.1.2. The American Elocutionists . . . . .	5
2.1.3. Later British Studies . . . . .	6
2.1.4. Later American Studies . . . . .	9
2.1.5. Complicating Characteristics . . . . .	11
2.2. Instrumental Analyses . . . . .	12
2.2.1. Of Frequency in Song or Speech . . . . .	12
2.2.2. Of Thresholds of Pitch Perception . . . . .	14
2.2.3. Of Duration and Intensity in Relation to Intonation . . . . .	15
2.3. Auditory and Instrumental Analyses in Relation to Phonemics . . . . .	16
3. General Characteristics of Intonation . . . . .	20
3.1. Constituted by Sequence of Pitches--Intonation Contours . . . . .	20
3.2. Accompanied by Shades of Meaning . . . . .	21
3.2.1. Contrasting Pronunciations as Evidence for Different Meanings . . . . .	21
3.2.2. Intonation Meanings Superimposed upon Lexical Meanings (Speaker's Attitude) . . . . .	21
3.2.3. Difficulty of Isolating an Intonation Contour for Analysis of its Meaning . . . . .	21
3.2.4. Strength of Meanings . . . . .	22
3.2.5. Principles and Dangers in Definitions of Meanings . . . . .	23
3.3. Distributed over Phrases . . . . .	24
3.4. Compared to the Tone of Tone Languages . . . . .	24
3.5. Divided into Parts . . . . .	25
3.5.1. Four Relative Levels at Contour Points . . . . .	25
3.5.2. The Contour Points of Primary Intonations . . . . .	27
3.5.3. Precontours within Total Contours . . . . .	29
3.6. Related to Pause and Rhythm . . . . .	30
3.6.1. Pauses (Tentative and Final) . . . . .	31
3.6.2. Simple Rhythm Units (Stress-timed and Syllable-Timed) . . . . .	34
3.6.3. Complex Rhythm Units (Including Syllables in Double Function; Intonation Breaks; Parataxis; Unification Rhythm) . . . . .	37
3.6.4. Weak and Curtained Rhythm Units . . . . .	39
3.6.5. Summary of Contrasts between Pause, Rhythm, and Intonation . . . . .	40
3.7. Transcribed with Various Types of Symbols . . . . .	41

SECTION	Page
4. Specific Contours . . . . .	44
4.1. Primary Contours. . . . .	44
4.1.1. Contours Falling to Pitch Level Four ( $^0_2-4$ , $^0_1-4$ , $^0_3-4$ ). . . . .	44
4.1.2. Contours Falling to Pitch Level Three ( $^0_2-3$ , $^0_1-3$ , $^0_2-3-2$ , $^0_1-3-2$ ). . . . .	49
4.1.3. Contours Rising from Pitch Level Three ( $^0_3-2$ , $^0_3-1$ ). . . . .	51
4.1.4. Contours Rising from Pitch Level Four ( $^0_4-3$ , $^0_2-4-3$ , $^0_1-4-3$ , $^0_3-4-3$ , $^0_4-3-4$ , $^0_4-2$ , $^0_2-4-2$ , $^0_1-4-2$ , $^0_4-1$ , $^0_2-4-2$ , $^0_1-4-1$ ). . . . .	54
4.1.5. Contours Rising from Pitch Level Two to One, and Falling from One to Two ( $^0_2-1$ , $^0_1-2$ ) . . . . .	59
4.1.6. Level Contours ( $^0_2-2$ , $^0_2$ , $^0_3-3$ , $^0_3$ , $^0_4-4$ , $^0_4$ , $^0_1-1$ , $^0_1$ ). . . . .	61
4.2. Precontours . . . . .	65
4.2.1. Level Precontours. . . . .	66
4.2.2. Slurred Precontours (Stressless and Stressed). . .	67
4.2.3. Proprecontours . . . . .	68
4.3. Special Contours and Contour Modifications. . . . .	68
4.3.1. Complex Contours ( $^0_2-4-^0_3-3$ , $^0_3-1-^0_4-3$ , $2-^0_4-4$ ). .	69
4.3.2. Descending Stress Series ( $^0_2$ -' - $^0_3$ - 4). . . . .	70
4.3.3. Spoken Chants ( $^0_2-2-^0_3-1-^0_2-2-^0_3-3$ , $^0_2:-3:$ , $^0_2-3$ ). .	71
4.3.4. Singsong . . . . .	72
4.3.5. Amplifications of Contours . . . . .	72
4.3.5.1. Resumed Contours. . . . .	72
4.3.5.2. Deferred Contours . . . . .	73
4.3.5.3. Subsidiary Contours . . . . .	73
4.3.5.4. Double Rise . . . . .	73
4.3.5.5. Postcontours and Early Drop or Rise of Pitch . . . . .	74
4.4. Modifications of Contours . . . . .	76
4.4.1. Modification by Change of Key. . . . .	76
4.4.2. Modification by Spread of Intervals. . . . .	76
4.4.3. Modification by Drift. . . . .	77
4.4.4. Modification by Rate of Utterance. . . . .	77
4.4.5. Modification by Optional Innate Stresses, Differences of Vowel Quality, and Boundaries of Parts of Words . . . . .	78
4.4.6. Modification by Word Boundaries, and Compounds . .	79
4.4.7. Modification by Degrees of Stress (Obligatory, Optional, Emphatic; Stressed, Unstressed; Innate Placement, Special Placement [ Sentence Stress ]; Modification of Stress by Intonation, Re-stress Potential; Compounding; Illustrative Text) . . . . .	82
4.4.8. Modification by Degrees of Quantity (on Beginning, Middle, and End of Syllables; Socially Significant Gradation; Community Norms, Physiological and Personal Differences). . . . .	96
4.4.9. Modification by Quality (with Illustrative Text) .	99

CONTENTS (Continued)

SECTION	Page
4. Specific Contours (Continued)
4.4.10. Modification by Degrees of Pause and Rhythm . . . . .	104
4.4.11. Modification by Conditioned Variation . . . . .	104
4.4.12. Modification by Dialects. . . . .	105
5. Utilization of Intonation in Teaching. . . . .	107
5.1. In Teaching English to Latin Americans. . . . .	107
5.1.1. The Need for Exercises to Combat Early Fall in Pitch at the Ends of Sentences and Excessive Rise in the Middle of Sentences . . . . .	107
5.1.2. Selection and Value of Minimum Contours. . . . .	107
5.1.3. The Essentiality of Combining Intonation with Rhythm . . . . .	109
5.1.4. Choice of Symbolism (with Illustrative Text) . . . .	110
5.1.5. Problems in the Placement of Stresses and Contours (with Illustrative Texts Containing Controlled and Uncontrolled Selection of Intonation Contours) . . .	117
5.1.6. The Problem of Reading Interference (with Illus- trative Text). . . . .	125
5.2. In Teaching a Method for Analyzing Tone Languages . . . . .	131
6. Proportionate Number of Occurrences of Contours. . . . .	134
6.1. Samples of Dialogue . . . . .	135
6.1.1. Bassick Draws an Ominous Conclusion. . . . .	135
6.1.2. Moriarty and Larrabee Exchange Protests. . . . .	136
6.1.3. Excitement Reigns. . . . .	136
6.1.4. Mr. Holmes Releases a Witness. . . . .	137
6.1.5. Miss Faulkner Appears to be Hesitant . . . . .	143
6.1.6. Sir Edward is Astounded. . . . .	145
6.1.7. Mr. Holmes Faces a Trying Situation. . . . .	148
6.2. Analysis of Number of Occurrences of Contours . . . . .	150
6.2.1. In Relation to Rhythm, Pause, and Stress . . . . .	150
6.2.2. Primary Contours . . . . .	154
6.2.3. Precontours. . . . .	161
6.2.4. Contours Occurring with Questions. . . . .	163
6.2.5. The Limited Contours of the English Language Institute in Relation to Frequency of Occurrence of the Contours . . . . .	168
7. The Setting of Intonation in Speech. . . . .	170
7.1. Layers of Form and Meaning. . . . .	170
7.2. Types of Layers . . . . .	170
7.3. Interaction of Layers . . . . .	172
Footnotes. . . . .	173
Bibliography . . . . .	191