

Contents

Acknowledgements	page ix
List of abbreviations	x
Introduction	I
PART I THE HISTORY AND THEORY OF BARBARISM
1 Introducing the barbarian: problems of barbarism and religion	II
2 Anquetil-Duperron: despotism and prophecy in Sassanid Persia	17
3 Antoine-Yves Goguet: the Confusion of Tongues and the origins of civility	37
4 Thomas Carte: Japhetic settlers in the western islands	65
5 The forest Germans: lethargy and passion in a transhumant culture	79
PART II JOSEPH DE GUIGNES AND THE DISCOVERY OF EURASIA
6 Gentile history in the further Asia	99
7 The many faces of Fo: the problem of religion in Eurasian history	110
8 Hans, Huns and Romans: the rhythms of barbarism and empire	133

PART III THE NEW WORLD AND THE PROBLEM OF HISTORY

- 9 The invention and discovery of savagery 157
- 10 Robertson's America: the Scottish theoretical encounter with the New World 181
- 11 The universe of savagery and the search for history 192
- 12 Ancient history for modern colonists: the reception of Robertson 205

PART IV THE CRISIS OF THE SEABORNE EMPIRES

- 13 European history and the global ocean 229
- 14 The antiquity of Asia: priests, legislators and the tragedy of history 246
- 15 American savages and European barbarians: the invasion of the natural world 269
- 16 Slaves and settlers: the sugar islands in the new geopolitics 294
- 17 Utopia and revolution: the northern continent in history 313

CONCLUSION

- 18 Gibbon and the empires 331

Envoi 340

Bibliography of works cited 343

Index 351