

Contents

Foreword by Hilmar Kopper . . . . .	xi
Introduction by Gerald D. Feldman . . . . .	xiii

The Deutsche Bank
from its Founding to the Great War
1870-1914
by Lothar Gall

I. Beginnings . . . . .	I
1. Founding	1
2. The early years	17
3. Growth and consolidation	21
II. Financing Industry . . . . .	24
1. The Deutsche Bank and the development of the system of universal banking	24
2. The move into flotation business	30
3. AEG and Siemens	32
4. Mannesmann	37
5. Klönne, Thyssen and the Ruhr	42
6. The role of 'finance capital'	45
III. Foreign Business . . . . .	49
1. First steps	51
2. Worldwide activities: America, the Far East, South-East Europe	57
3. The Baghdad Railway	67

IV. Banking and Politics .....	78
1. Political attitudes and political involvement of members of the managing and supervisory boards	78
2. The bank's connections with Kaiser and government	96
3. The bank and the public	100
V. The Deutsche Bank in the Life and Society of Imperial Germany .....	107
1. The Deutsche Bank as employer and as organization	107
2. Status, origins and self-image of managing directors	117
3. The external appearance of the bank before 1914	125
The Deutsche Bank from World War to World Economic Crisis 1914-1933 by Gerald D. Feldman
I. The Deutsche Bank in the First World War .....	130
1. The bank and war finance	130
2. Expansion at home and abroad	135
3. Facing an uncertain peace	155
II. From Inflation to Stabilization 1918-1924 .....	160
1. Revolution and labour troubles	160
2. Credit policies and competition in the inflation	166
3. Expansion at home and retreat abroad	173
4. The problem of reparations	184
5. Hyperinflation and stabilization	191
III. The Deutsche Bank and the Perilous Recovery 1924-1929 .....	200
1. Self-assertion and retrenchment	200
2. The bank and its industrial clients	208
3. Credits to the USSR and credits from the USA	222
4. The great fusion	230

IV. The Deutsche Bank und Disconto-Gesellschaft in Depression and Banking Crisis 1930-1933 .....	240
1. Scandal, political and fiscal crisis and deflation	240
2. A banking system in eclipse	258

The Deutsche Bank and the Dictatorship
1933-1945

by Harold James

Introduction .....	277
I. The Initial Challenge: National Socialist Ideology .....	283
1. The bank inquiry	283
2. Credits	285
3. Reprivatization	291
II. Anti-Semitism and the German Banks .....	293
1. Finance and anti-Semitism	293
2. Bank employees	298
3. Banks and 'non-Aryan' business	301
III. Emil Georg von Stauss: The Banker as Politician .....	308
1. Films and political education	309
2. Motors in the air and on the ground	313
3. Multinational business in conflict with nationalism	315
IV. Foreign Expansion .....	318
1. Colonies	320
2. German colonialism in Europe	321
3. The New Order	336

V. The Expansion of State and Party during the War . . . . .	338
1. The expansion of the state	338
2. Criticism of banks	340
3. Relationships with firms	345
4. Political dangers	349

VI. The End of Dictatorship . . . . .	354
---------------------------------------	-----

The Deutsche Bank 1945-1957:
War, Military Rule and Reconstruction

by Carl-Ludwig Holtfrerich

I. The Transition from the End of the War to Occupation Rule . . . .	357
1. Continuity and discontinuity in the membership of the board of managing directors and the supervisory board, and in the conduct of business	357
2. Berlin at the end of the war and the bank policy of the Soviet military government and of the Berlin Allied Kommandatura	382
3. The position of the banks in the Western zones during the initial phase of occupation	396
II. The Banking Policy of the Western Allies . . . . .	402
1. Internal controversy over the fundamental orientation of occupation policy	402
2. The decentralization of the big banks and the Reichsbank by the Western Allies	414
3. The Bank deutscher Länder, the Reconstruction Loan Corporation and currency reform	430
III. Recentralization of the Big Banks . . . . .	439
1. The success of German initiatives partially to recentralize the big banks 1949-1952	439
2. Total recentralization under German management 1952-1957	468
IV. The Deutsche Bank and Economic Reconstruction . . . . .	486
1. Reviving business	486
2. Business policy positions and actions	515

Deutsche Bank from 1957 to the Present:
The Emergence of an International Financial Conglomerate

by Hans E. Büschgen

- |     |   |     |
|-----|---|-----|
| I.  | Deutsche Bank: An Open, Sociotechnical System . . . . .                       | 523 |
| 1.  | Organization and technology: the foundations of business 523                  |     |
|     | a) Structural organization 524 – b) Procedural organization 538 –      |     |
|     | c) EDP and its development into automated information                  |     |
|     | processing 541 – d) Accounting, controlling and planning 545           |     |
| 2.  | Labour and capital: factors behind success 553                                |     |
|     | a) From personnel administration to international human resources      |     |
|     | policy 553 – b) Shareholders: divided and conquered 571                |     |
| 3.  | Deutsche Bank in its economic and social environment 582                      |     |
|     | a) Criticism of the power of banks – Deutsche Bank's position 582 –    |     |
|     | b) Relations with the (former) Soviet Union 598 – c) Business          |     |
|     | relations with South Africa under public criticism 601 – d) Position   |     |
|     | on the international debt crisis 603                                   |     |
| II. | Deutsche Bank in the Market: A Full-Service Bank for                          |     |
|     | all Types of Customer. . . . .  | 606 |
| 1.  | Developments in market positioning 606  |     |
| 2.  | Trends in traditional domestic business with corporates and                   |     |
|     | institutions 610  |     |
|     | a) Target group expansion over time 610 – b) Trends in the product     |     |
|     | range for corporates 618 – c) Trends in business with small and        |     |
|     | medium-sized corporates 637 – d) Institutional developments in         |     |
|     | corporate banking 644  |     |
| 3.  | International business: cautious expansion and innovation 656                 |     |
|     | a) Partner to exporters and importers 657 – b) Trends in international |     |
|     | lending 666 – c) Trends in international issuing 674 – d) Trends in    |     |
|     | Euro equities business 687 – e) Trends in international asset          |     |
|     | management 690 – f) Corporate finance: a new international business    |     |
|     | line 692   |     |
| 4.  | Revolutionary at first: retail banking in Germany 697                         |     |
|     | a) Roots and changing importance of retail banking 697 – b) Trends     |     |
|     | in the financial services programme 703 – c) Development into a        |     |
|     | national financial conglomerate 726 – d) The new challenge: retail     |     |
|     | banking in the former GDR 731  |     |

III. Becoming a Global Financial Conglomerate . . . . .	735
1. Trends in globalization as a strategic concept at Deutsche Bank	735
2. The international institutional development of Deutsche Bank	747
3. On the evaluation of the institutional lines of development	783
4. 'Global playing' under discussion	785
Notes . . . . .	797
Abbreviations . . . . .	893
List of Visited Archives . . . . .	898
Bibliography . . . . .	899
Index of Persons . . . . .	919
Index of Companies and Institutions . . . . .	929
Members of the Board of Managing Directors . . . . .	943
The Authors . . . . .	945
Photo Sources . . . . .	947