

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
SECTION 1: CONCEPTS OF INTERPERSONAL COMMUNICATION.....	1
1 The Social Psychological Approach to Interpersonal Communication Peter Bull and Derek Roger	9
2 Current Developments in Conversation Analysis John Heritage	21
3 Conversation Analysis and Social Psychology as Descriptions of Interpersonal Communication Robert Hopper	48
SECTION 2: METHODS OF OBSERVATION.....	67
4 Experimental Studies of Dyadic Turn-Taking Behaviour Derek Roger	75
5 Recalling Someone from the Past Paul Drew	96
6 Family Interaction from an Interactional Sociolinguistic Perspective Erica Huls	116
SECTION 3: TRANSCRIPTION PROCEDURES.....	141
7 Psychological Approaches to Transcription Peter Bull	150
8 Preliminary Notes on a Possible Metric which Provides for a 'Standard Maximum' Silence of Approximately One Second in Conversation Gail Jefferson	166

9 On the Use of General Phonetic Techniques in Handling Conversational Material J. Kelly and J. K. Local	197
SECTION 4: DATA ANALYSIS.....	213
10 Time and Action Peter Collett	218
11 Remarks on the Methodology of Conversation Analysis A. J. Wootton	238
SECTION 5: RESEARCH APPLICATIONS.....	259
12 Social Skills and Physical Handicap Andrew P. Thomas	269
13 The Role of Cuelessness in Social Interaction: An Examination of Teaching by Telephone D. R. Rutter	294
14 'Out of Their Minds': An Analysis of Discourse in Two South African Science Classrooms Johan Muller	313
Epilogue.....	339
Index.....	347