

CONTENTS

	Page
INTRODUCTION	9
A. The problem of the unconscious in various contexts	9
1. The concept of the unconscious: a broad interpretation	9
2. The concept of the unconscious: a narrow formulation	10
3. The problem of the unconscious as understood in the present study ..	12
B. The problem of the unconscious: its importance and unsatisfactory formulation	12
C. The objects of the study and the limitations placed upon it	14
1. Objects	14
2. Limitations	15
I. THE PROBLEM OF THE UNCONSCIOUS IN THE LIGHT OF META- SCIENTIFIC ANALYSIS, PHILOSOPHICAL ANTHROPOLOGY AND THE PHILOSOPHY OF EXISTENCE	16
A. Metascientific investigation of psychology and the problem of the uncon- scious	16
1. General	16
2. The problem of knowledge	18
3. Psychology and the unity of the sciences	21
4. Views on the empirical	24
5. The general and the individual	27
6. The problem of causality	30
7. The problem of exactitude and strictness	32
8. The predictability and control of phenomena	33
9. The problem of theory	33
B. The problem of the unconscious as mapped out by various philosophical con- ceptions of man	36
1. General	36
2. The problem of the unconscious and the conceptions of man in philosophical anthropology	37
3. The problem of the unconscious and the conception of man in the philosophy of existence	42
4. Man and the transcending capacity	48
II. ON THE PRE-FREUDIAN AND PRE-JUNGIAN CONCEPTIONS OF THE UNCONSCIOUS	50
A. The Eastern tradition	50
1. Historical origins of the problem of the unconscious	50
2. On the states of consciousness and the unconscious in Hindu psychology	52
3. On consciousness and the unconscious in Zen Buddhism	56
4. The Western and Eastern conceptions of consciousness	57
B. The Western tradition	59
1. An outline of the development down to the end of the Middle Ages	59
2. An outline of developments in the Modern Ages	65

3. The formulation of the problem of the unconscious in the second half of the 19th century	68
C. On the problem of the dream in relation to the problems of consciousness and the unconscious: a historical outline	72
III. ON THE PROBLEM OF THE UNCONSCIOUS IN FREUD'S AND JUNG'S DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY	77
A. Freud	77
1. On Freud's conception of man as a basis of his formulation of the problem of the unconscious	77
2. On the problem of the unconscious in Freud's theorizing	82
B. Jung	89
1. On Jung's conception of man and his metaphysics	89
2. On Jung's typology	96
3. On the topography of consciousness in Jung	99
4. The basic concepts in the analysis of the unconsciously constituted world: complex, archetype and symbol	102
a. Complex	102
b. Archetype	104
c. Symbol	109
C. On dream consciousness in Freud and Jung	115
IV. ON THE PROBLEM OF THE UNCONSCIOUS IN THE LIGHT OF THE ANALYSIS OF MEANING	122
1. The problem of the unconscious and the problematic of meaning	122
2. The meaning of 'meaning' and the problem of the unconscious	123
3. The meaning function from the standpoint of the producer	127
4. The body as subjectivity and the unconscious meaning sphere	131
5. Perception and the unconscious meaning functions	137
6. The constitution of knowledge and the constitution of the unconscious	144
7. On the analysis of the unconscious in the lived world	154
8. Explication of the concept of meaning in the analysis of the unconscious	160
V. ON THE PRESENT STAGE OF THE FORMULATION OF THE PROBLEM ¹ OF THE UNCONSCIOUS IN THE LIGHT OF PHENOMENOLOGY	165
1. The unconscious as a manifestation of man's transcending capacity	165
2. The amorphism, paramorphism and quasi-morphism of meaning functions in the philosophical explanation of the unconscious	170
3. Favourable organization of meaning functions	177
4. The tensions between the various phases and types of the organization of meaning functions in the explanation of the dynamics of the depth-psychological unconscious	179
5. Determination of the unconscious-characteristic of meaning functions, the possibilities of changing their unconscious-characteristic and the means by which this may be done	183
6. Psychic disorders, the unconscious and the organization of meaning functions	192
7. On the organization of the meaning functions of the dream and on their coordination with the waking consciousness	196
8. On the heuristic dimensions of the analysis of the organization of meaning functions	203
9. A phenomenological formulation of the problem of the unconscious	208