

Contents

INTRODUCTION	1
Part I What is Man?
1. What is Real?	7
2. Non-psychological Psychology	15
3. Psychology as a Form of Philosophical Anthropology	24
Part II The Reaction Against Freudian Theory
4. The Origins of Love and Hate	49
5. Exorcising the Death Instinct	61
6. Is Life at Home in the Universe?	65
7. An Inescapable Speculation	69
8. Metapsychology and Negation	78
Part III A New View of Man: The Development of Object-relations Psychology
9. Psychology, Poetry, and Science	85
10. Melanie Klein: Phantasy and Aggression	105
11. Love and the Structure of Personality The theories of W. R. D. Fairbairn	136
12. Schizoid Factors in the Personality Fairbairn's analysis of the Logic of Hate	143
13. The Psychology of Dynamic energies Fairbairn's Conclusions	156
14. The Heart of Being: The Insights of D. W. Winnicott	161
Part IV Identity and Society
Implications for Social Theory, Social Psychology, Education, Ethics, Politics, and the Humanities and Culture
15. Identity and Social Theory	179
16. 'Society' and our 'Instincts'	189
17. Education, Culture and Moral Growth	201
18. 'Amorality', 'Progress', and Democracy	215
19. The Primacy of Culture	225

Part V Psychoanalysis and Existentialism

20. Psychoanalysis and Existentialism	243
21. Thought in Existence	250
22. Sartre and 'Freedom'	255
23. Is R. D. Laing an Existentialist?	269

Part VI Conclusions

24. Society and Inner Needs	289
25. The Humanist Conscience	297

BIBLIOGRAPHY	303
--------------	-----

INDEX	307
-------	-----