

CONTENTS

Editor's Note (Kenneth E. Rowe)	vii
Foreword (Julian N. Hartt)	viii
GENERAL INTRODUCTION	1
a. five purposes	3
b. background	10
c. mystery & method	13
d. tactics	19
PART 1: The Structure of Consciousness in L'homme faillible	23
Introduction	25
a. "faillibilité": Ricoeur's purpose	25
b. intentionality: Ricoeur's strategy	28
The question of framework	30
I. the concepts: the elements of L'homme faillible	31
a. concepts relating to types of intention	31
i. "finite" & "infinite"	31
ii. the framework: its possible limitations	37
b. concepts relating to the foundations of intentionality	40
i. the "concrete": descriptive & metaphysical	44
ii. "self-consciousness" & the paradox of the emotions	49
II. the frameworks: their assets & limitations	54
a. the finite/infinite framework	56
b. the intellect/emotion framework	57
III. explication de texte: the structural ambiguity of L'homme faillible	59
a. the finite/infinite framework in operation	65
b. the intellect/emotion framework in operation	69

Conclusion: The heart of fallibility	77
PART 2: The Logic of the Unconscious in the "Lecture de Freud"	83
Introduction	85
a. against the charge of reductionism	86
b. for "an archeology of the subject"	90
The question of development	97
I. the first topography: unconscious, pre- conscious & conscious	98
a. The "Project for a Scientific Psychology"	99
b. The Interpretation of Dreams	103
c. The "Papers on Metapsychology"	108
II. the second topography: id, ego & superego	116
III. the late theory of the instincts: Thanatos & Eros	120
a. retrospect: pleasure principle & reality principle	121
b. revision: death instincts & sexual instincts	129
Conclusion	138
GENERAL CONCLUSION	145
a. retrospect: a reformulation of the defense against the charge of reductionism	147
b. prospect: a reformulation of the project for an archeology of the subject	152
NOTES
General Introduction	159
Part 1	163
Part 2	168
General Conclusion	176
SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY	178
INDEX	181