

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. Test anxiety and self-related cognitions	1
1. Self-focused attention in test anxiety: A general theory applied to a specific phenomenon. Charles S. Carver and Michael F. Scheier	3
2. Test anxiety and distinctiveness of personal information John H. Mueller and W. Burt Thompson	21
3. Anxiety management via problem-solving instruction. Martin V. Covington	39
4. An expectancy-value model of anxiety. Reinhard Pekrun	53
5. The developmental relationship between test anxiety and helplessness. Ralf Schwarzer, Matthias Jerusalem and Arne Stiksrud	73
II. Personality and behavior of test anxious individuals	81
6. Test anxiety: Its determinants, manifestations and consequences. Ramzi F. Salamé	83
7. Curiosity, exploration, and anxiety. Hans-Georg Voss	121
8. Test-anxiety, task difficulty and diagnosticity: The roles of cognitive interference and fear of failure as determinants of choice-of task. Robert M. Arkin and Curt Haugtvedt	147
9. Activity style of anxious individuals. Wolfgang Schönplflug	163
III. Test anxiety and performance	173
10. Evaluative stress and performance: The case of test anxiety. Charles Vlek and Ad Pruyn	175
11. Worry, emotionality, intelligence and academic performance in male and female Dutch secondary school children. Henk M. van der Ploeg	201
12. Fear of failure, worry and emotionality: Their suggestive causal relationships to mathematical performance and state anxiety. Knut A. Hagtvet	211
13. Heart rate variability and public task performance: Psychophysiological expressions of test anxiety. Ad Pruyn, Charles Vlek and Jaro Aaten	225

14. "I really can't do it, anyway": The treatment of test anxiety. Robert M. Topman and Tilleke Jansen	243
IV. Cross-cultural measures of test anxiety	253
15. Test anxiety research in India: A review. Sagar Sharma and Usha Rao	255
16. Development of the Polish form of the State-Trait Personality Inventory Kazimierz Wrześniewski	265
17. Adaptation of the Korean form of the Test Anxiety Inventory: A research note. Christine Schwarzer and Moon-Joo Kim	277