

CONTENTS

Preface	v
I. MEASUREMENT IN PSYCHOLOGY AND EDUCATION	1
1. The Nature of Psychological Measurement	4
2. Test Construction: An Overview	17
3. Some Basic Statistics	34
Suggested Further Reading for Part I	46
II. CONSISTENCY AND VALIDITY	47
4. Consistency, Validity, and Measurement Error	51
5. Reliability	67
6. Homogeneity and Special Problems in Reliability	83
7. Criterion-Related Validity	97
8. Content and Construct Validity	122
9. Combining Test Scores	140
Suggested Further Reading for Part II	168
	vii

III. INTERPRETING TEST SCORES	171
10. Norm-Referenced Scores	174
11. Content- and Outcome-Referenced Scores	202
Suggested Further Reading for Part III	220
IV. MEASURES OF MAXIMAL PERFORMANCE	223
12. Aptitude, Ability, and Achievement	226
13. Classroom Tests	245
14. Standardized Achievement Tests	270
15. Measures of General Intellectual Ability	298
16. Measures of Aptitudes and Abilities	325
Suggested Further Reading for Part IV	348
V. MEASURES OF TYPICAL PERFORMANCE	351
17. Self-Report Inventories	354
18. Projective and Situational Measures	392
Suggested Further Reading for Part V	417
VI. USING PSYCHOLOGICAL AND EDUCATIONAL TESTS	419
19. Applications of Educational and Psychological Tests	421
20. Selecting and Evaluating Tests	441
21. Problems and Trends	457
Suggested Further Reading for Part VI	467
Appendix A. Areas of the Normal Curve with Comparable Percentile Ranks and Standard Scores	469
Appendix B. Examples of Commercially Published Tests	472
References	479
Name Index	495
Subject Index	498