

Contents

Contributors	ix
Acknowledgements	xvii
Foreword by Renzo Pegoraro	xix
1 Introduction: all of the future exists in the past?	1
RICHARD HUXTABLE
PART I
The voices and rooms of European bioethics, then and now	9
2 Medical ethics, then and now: a 40-year perspective	11
ALASTAIR V. CAMPBELL
3 Bioethics past, present and future: a personal and narrative perspective from the European continent	17
PAUL SCHOTSMANS
4 ‘Getting ethics’: voices in harmony in bioethics	31
RUTH CHADWICK
PART II
European bioethics in social rooms	41
5 Personalised medicine: priority setting and opportunity costs in European public health care systems	43
JOCHEN VOLLMANN
6 Phage-ethics: a ‘depth’ bioethical reading of Sinclair Lewis’s science novel Arrowsmith	53
HUB ZWART

7	Voices carry? The voice of bioethics in the courtroom and the voice of law in bioethics	73
	RICHARD HUXTABLE AND SUZANNE OST
8	A (social) room with a view (to the future): advance decisions and the problem of personhood	87
	TOM HAYES
PART III
	European bioethics in clinical rooms	103
9	Physicians' perspectives on patient preferences and advance directives in England and France: other countries, other requirements?	105
	RUTH HORN
10	'You don't need proof when you've got instinct!': gut feelings and some limits to parental authority	120
	GILES BIRCHLEY
11	Beyond listening or telling: moral case deliberation as a hermeneutic approach to clinical ethics support	136
	SUZANNE METSELAAR, MARGREET STOLPER AND GUY WIDDERSHOVEN
12	Authority, markets and society: three possible foundations for European bioethics	148
	ANGUS DAWSON
PART IV
	European bioethics in academic rooms	157
13	Medical ethics in medical classrooms: from theory to practice	159
	WING MAY KONG
14	Teaching medical students: more room for an ethical 'differential analysis', please?	180
	ROUVEN PORZ AND ANDREAS E. STUCK
15	Bioethics in academic rooms: hearing other voices, living in other rooms	192
	RAYMOND G. DE VRIES
	Index	207