

Contents

CONTRIBUTORS	xi
PREFACE	xiii
1. Introduction
MICHAEL BRENNER, JENNIFER BROWN, AND DAVID CANTER
Using Interviews in Research	1
Objectives for the Book	2
The Value of the Interview	2
Organisation of the Book	4
Some Recurring Themes	5
Conclusion	7
References	7
2. Survey Interviewing
MICHAEL BRENNER
Survey Research as Goal-Directed Action	9
Survey Interviewing as a Problem in the Psychology of Action	12
The Structure of Action in Survey Interviewing	20
Interviewer Training and the Assessment of Interviewing Performance	32
Conclusion	34
References	35
3. A Field Experiment on Interviewer – Respondent Interaction
WIL DIJKSTRA, LIENEKE VAN DER VEEN, AND JOHANNES VAN DER ZOUWEN
Introduction	37
Data Collection	38
Results	49

Action-by-Action Analysis	56
Summary	62
References	63
4. Questionnaire Design in the Context of Information Research
T. D. WILSON
Project INISS: A Study of Information-Seeking Behaviour in Social Services Departments	65
Principles of Questionnaire Design	66
The Observational Phase of Project INISS	67
The Consequences of Observation for Questionnaire Design	68
The Questionnaire in Use	74
Conclusions	76
References	77
5. A Multiple Sorting Procedure for Studying Conceptual Systems
DAVID CANTER, JENNIFER BROWN, AND LINDA GROAT
Constructs and Categories	79
Restrictive Explorations	81
Beyond the Repertory Grid	83
Instead of Q-Sorts and Paired-Comparisons	85
Sorting as a Focus for an Interview	86
The Multiple Sorting Procedure	88
Variations in Elements Sorted	92
Foci of Analysis	95
Some Important Questions for the Future	106
Conclusions	112
References	113
6. The Content Analysis of Qualitative Research Data: A Dynamic Approach
BARBARA MOSTYN
Introduction	115
Quantitative Data versus Qualitative Data; or "What" versus "Why" Data	116
What is Qualitative Content Analysis?	117
The Quantitative Heritage	118
Quantitative versus Qualitative Content Analysis	120
Types of Open-Ended Material Subjected to Content Analysis	124

Other Factors Affecting the Content Analysis of Qualitative Data	126
The Approach to Content Analysis of Qualitative Research Material	128
The Concept Book Approach to Content Analysis	132
A "Recipe" for the Content Analysis of Open-Ended Data: The Concept Book Approach	133
References	145
7. Intensive Interviewing
MICHAEL BRENNER
Introduction	147
Interviewing Technique	150
Considerations before Account Analysis	154
Conclusion	161
References	161
8. Life Story Interviews and Their Interpretation
STEPHEN K. TAGG
Introduction	163
The Life Story Interview	164
Interpretations of Life Story Interview Material	176
Conclusions	194
References	196
9. Inferring from Verbal Reports to Cognitive Processes
LISANNE BAINBRIDGE
Introduction	201
Preparing the Material	203
Content Analysis	207
Sequences in the Content	210
Conclusion	214
References	214
10. The Uses of Explanation in the Research Interview
JENNIFER BROWN AND DAVID CANTER
Reasons for Using Explanations as Empirical Data	217
Error and Bias	222
Role and Context	223

A Quasi-Judicial Model	225
Varieties of Explanation	229
Some Empirical Examples	230
Summary and Conclusion	242
References	243
11. Scientists' Interview Talk: Interviews as a Technique for Revealing Participants' Interpretative Practices
JONATHAN POTTER AND MICHAEL MULKAY
Introduction: Interviews and Social Studies of Science	247
The Problem of Variability	249
Order and Interpretative Practices	259
Discussion: Variability, Reliability, and Intervention	265
References	270
INDEX	273