

Contents

Contributors	7
Bernhard Kettemann and Georg Marko	13
Filling the Reflecting Pool: The Self-analysis of English and American Studies
Nancy Campbell	19
Developing Effective Writing through Genre Awareness
Kirsten Hempkin	27
Successful Writing: Changing Student Perceptions and Approaches
Jennifer Schumm	39
The Role of a Self-study Portfolio in Promoting Learner Independence in the ESL Classroom
Klementina Jurančič Petek	59
Is it Enough to Teach Segments in (Segmental) Phonetics and Phonology?
Martina König	69
E-learning English: The Methodological and Technical State of the Art
Nada Šabec	79
English at the Crossroads – The Inner Circle versus the Expanding Circle
Slavko Cvetek	87
English Language Teacher Education: Whose Field? What Science?
Melita Kukovec	99
From an English Teacher to a Good English Teacher – What Makes the Difference?
Michelle Gadpaille	109
The Limits of Theory: Acts of Evaluation in the Contemporary Literature Classroom

Victor Kennedy	129
Teaching Canadian Literature and Culture in the European Classroom
Dunja Jutronic	135
Teaching the History of the English Language – Problems and Suggestions
Bernhard Kettemann	149
Teaching Literature through Corpora – A Contradiction in Terms or the Perfect Match?
Georg Marko	163
Nasty Data: Problems with Linguistic Data in Critical Discourse Analytical Research
Katja Plemenitaš	177
Examining some Features of Written Style in Light of the Theory of Language Change
Michaela Haller	189
How to Discover Underlying Concepts (of Innovation): The Interplay between Qualitative and Quantitative Methods of Text Analysis
Martina Elicker	209
Traditional Art Forms as Reflected by New Media: Ot(h)ello, a Case in Point
Hermine Penz	229
Towards Successful Intercultural Communication
Roberta Maierhofer	249
Crossing (Age) Lines and Negotiating Difference: Narrative Bonds in American Fiction
Alwin Fill	263
Linguistic Devices for the Creation of Suspense
Index	277