

CONTENTS

The Role and Status of English as a Subject in the Zambian English-medium Context 1

ROY WIGZELL

Introduction. The existing ELT programme. Towards a new ELT strategy for Zambia. The remedial option. The communicative option. The simplification option. The ESP option. The integration option. Concluding remarks. References

Planning a Project 15

ANN HAYES

Introduction. Why are we here in Sierra Leone? What can we do to achieve our aims? Who will do all this? Where will they do it? When will the work be done?

Materials Design in Africa with Particular Reference to the Francophone Primary School Project, Cameroon 29

PAUL WILSON and IAN HARRISON

Introduction. Project background. Suggestions for project design. Trialling. Evaluation. References

The English Language Textbook Project, Somalia 49

DAVID CLARKE, HARRY HAWKES, NORMAN PRITCHARD and BRIAN SMITH

Introduction. Designing the course. Design constraints and textbook illustrations. The teacher-training component. Evaluation of English for Somalia

Materials Design For Nigerian Secondary Schools 69

NEVILLE J. H. GRANT

Introduction. Objectives of English at secondary level. What kinds of materials? Applied reading skills. Conclusion. References

Evaluation of Educational Projects, with Special Reference to English Language Education 85

PAULINE M. REA

Introduction. Background. The process of project design. The role of evaluation within project design. Parameters of project evaluation: a case study. Project localization. Conclusion. References

Project Planning and Performance 99

ROGER BOWERS

Introduction. Curriculum development projects: a model. Testing the model: CDELT Ain Shams 1976-82. Planning and performance: some practical suggestions. Conclusion. Notes. References

The Introduction of Service English Courses in ESL Tertiary Institutions 121

JAMES DRURY

Introduction. The setting. The course. The problems. Staff level. Possible solutions. Lessons to be learned

Writing Reading Courses: The Interrelationship of Theory and Practice 135

P. J. BROWN and S. B. HIRST

Introduction. Theory and practice. Reading. Comprehension. Evaluation. Conclusion. Appendix. Bibliography

Unique and Recurrent Elements in Syllabuses for ESP 151

LEO O'KEEFFE

Introduction. A sample. Unit one: performing technical tasks in industrial engineering. Unit two: working with colleagues, supervisors and subordinates. Discussion. Conclusion. References. Acknowledgements

Language in Legal Practice 161

H. WAINMAN and M. WILKINSON

Introduction. Designing the programme. Implementation. Evaluation. References

Notes on Contributors 171