

CONTENTS

	PAGE
Preface	xi
Introduction, by Michael Bertin	xiii

I TRIBUTES

Eric Bentley: an Appreciation, by C.S. Lewis	3
Eric Bentley: a Citation, by James McFarlane	9
Repertory Memories, by Robert Brustein	17
Eric Bentley . . . and Me, by Richard Gilman	25

II DRAMATISTS

The Wild Duck as a Portrait of the Artist in Transition, by Rolf Fjelde	35
Ibsen, Strindberg, and the New Woman, by Evert Sprinchorn	45
Eros, Priapos, and Shaw, by Jacques Barzun	67
A Paragraph by Shaw, by Stanley Kauffmann	89
Shaw and the Marriage in Dionysus, by Michael Goldman	97
Bentley on Pirandello: Forty Years Later, by Anne Paolucci	113

Wedekind and Witkiewicz (Witkacy), by Jan Kott (translated by Lillian Vallee).....	123
“How Happy Could I Be With Both!” Brecht’s Early Loves, by Martin Esslin.....	135
The Business Deals of Herr Bertolt Brecht, by John Fuegi.....	155
Exits from No Exit , by Ruby Cohn.....	189
The Dynamics of Peter Shaffer’s Drama, by Bernard Beckerman.....	199
Sam Shepard: Iconographer of the Depths, by Arthur Ganz.....	211

III ON ACTING

But Do Film Actors Act? by Albert Bermel.....	241
EB on Acting, by Gordon Rogoff.....	257

IV THEMES

The Coming of the Barbarians, by Daniel Gerould.....	269
The Myth of Ritual in the Marketplace of Signs, by Herbert Blau.....	305
Bibliographical Notes.....	341
Contributors	345