Contents

Chapter 1
Communication, emotions and expressivity

1.1.	Aim and scope	1
1.2.	Contextualizations	2
1.2.1.	Expressivity	3
1.2.1.1.	A pragmatic and interactional perspective	10
1.2.2.	Emotions and expressions	11
1.3.	Leading concepts	14

Chapter 2
The so-called possessive dative

2.1.	Plan of discussion	17
2.2.	Introduction	17
2.3.	Dative and possession	20
2.4.	Meaning surplus	25
2.4.1.	Experience or interest?	25
2.4.2.	Attachment	29
2.4.2.1.	The use of the possessive dative in Beowulf	31
2.5.	Synopsis	40

Chapter 3
The ethic dative

3.1.	Plan of discussion	41
3.2.	The state of the art	41
3.3.	The ethic dative as speaker's attachment	43
3.3.1.	Signs, meanings and scopes	43
3.3.2.	Mode of attachment	46
3.4.	Ethic dative versus benefactive dative?	52
3.4.1.	Grades of attachment and grades of extension	57
3.5.	Synopsis	61

Chapter 4
The expanded form

4.1.	Plan of discussion	63
4.2.	The Modern English form and its function	63
4.3.	The expanded form in early usage: Bede's Ecclesiastical History	68
4.3.1.	Paradigmatic features	69
4.3.2.	Discourse-related analyses	79
4.4.	Challenge and reconciliation	86
4.5.	Glancing at Modern English anew	89
4.6.	Synopsis	91

Chapter 5
The present perfect

5.1.	Plan of discussion	93
5.2.	Orientation marks	93
5.3.	Against tense-based views	97
5.4.	Toward a non-temporal view of the present perfect	100
5.5.	Time frames	108
5.6.	The use of the present perfect in the history of English	113
5.6.1.	Case study: Some Cely Letters	118
5.6.2.	On the linearity of language change	126
5.7.	Synopsis	126

Chapter 6
The periphrastic do

6.1.	Plan of discussion	128
6.2.	Introduction	128
6.3.	The do-periphrasis in affirmative statements	130
6.3.1.	Sign and basic meaning	131
6.3.2.	Remarkableness and contrast	133
6.3.3.	The speaker's involvement	139
6.4.	The do-periphrasis in negations and questions	143
6.5.	Case study: A Supplicacyon for the Beggers, by S. Fish	147
6.5.1.	The do-occurrences	147
6.5.2.	Economizing the use of the do-periphrasis	153

6.6. The development of the do-periphrasis toward present-day English usage 157
6.7. Synopsis 160

Chapter 7
The get-passive

7.1. Plan of discussion 162
7.2. Main-stream concepts and alternatives 162
7.3. What's passive about get + V-ed? 166
7.4. Instrumental condition of the get-passive 168
7.5. Propositional condition of the get-passive 171
7.6. Attachment 174
7.6.1. Attachment and describability 177
7.7. Case study: S. Terkel, Working. People talk about what they do all day and how they feel about what they do 180
7.8. Synopsis 185

Chapter 8
Putting the results in perspective: Grammar and the Self

8.1. The major results 187
8.2. Subjectification 190
8.3. A cultural-historical frame 192
8.3.1. The twelfth century renascence - before and after 192
8.3.2. The Renaissance and after 195
8.3.3. The present time 201

Notes 204

References 222

Index of authors 244

Index of subjects 249