

Contents

Acknowledgements	VII
Chapter 1 Introduction	1
Chapter 2 Auxiliaries	15
2.1. Introduction	15
2.2. Epistemic and non-epistemic modals	18
2.3. Criteria of auxiliarity	21
2.4. The semantic criterion	23
2.5. The criterion of functional dependency	25
2.6. The criterion of permanence of the lexical restrictions of V"	32
2.7. The criterion of direct attachment	35
2.8. Analysis proposed	37
Chapter 3 Analysis of mood	43
3.1. The concept of modality	43
3.2. Mood in English	46
3.3. Mood in Danish	49
Chapter 4 Analysis of tense	53
4.1. Time and tense	53
4.2. Number of tenses and their implementation	55
4.3. Tense meanings	59
4.4. Eight or six tenses?	64
4.5. Other analytical possibilities	66
4.6. Tense in fiction	69
Chapter 5 Mood usage	73
5.1. Possibility	73
5.2. Necessity	83
5.3. Probability	90
5.4. Report	93
5.5. Imperative	98

5.6. Subjunctive	105
5.7. Mood in non-finite verb phrases	111
Chapter 6 Tense usage	113
6.1. Present time meaning	113
6.2. Future time meaning	117
6.3. Past time meaning	124
6.4. Anterior time meaning	126
6.5. Anterior past time meaning	133
6.6. Anterior future time meaning	136
6.7. Future of the past time meaning	139
6.8. Anterior future of the past time meaning	141
6.9. Summary	143
6.10. Tense usage in indirect speech	147
6.11. Tense in non-finite clauses	152
Chapter 7 Modal usage of tenses	159
7.1. The present	159
7.2. The future	161
7.3. The present perfect	166
7.4. The future perfect	168
7.5. The past	170
7.6. The future of the past	176
7.7. The past perfect	179
7.8. The future perfect of the past	182
7.9. Summary	184
Chapter 8 Semi-auxiliaries and deontic modality	187
8.1. Permission	187
8.2. Compulsion	194
8.3. Obligation	206
8.4. Duty	209
Notes	213
Bibliography	215
Index	221