Contents

Preface vii
Acknowledgements ix

Chapter 1 Intonation: what it is and what it does 1
1. Definition 2
2. System 7
3. Structure 12
4. Functions 16
   - 4.1 The organization of information 16
   - 4.2 The realization of communicative functions 18
   - 4.3 The expression of attitude 20
   - 4.4 Syntactic structure 21
   - 4.5 Textual structure 23
   - 4.6 The identification of speech styles 26
5. Conclusion 29

Chapter 2 Tonality: the units of intonation 31
1. Neutral tonality 31
2. Marked tonality 34
3. Lists 36
4. Marked theme 37
5. Adjuncts 37
6. Tags 38
7. Tonality contrasts in grammar 39
   - 7.1 Defining and non-defining items 40
   - 7.2 Apposition 41
   - 7.3 Verb phrases 44
   - 7.4 Negative domain 45
   - 7.5 Report clauses 46
   - 7.6 Clause complements 48
8. Intonation unit boundaries 49

Chapter 3 Tonicity: the focal point of intonation 53
1. Tonic syllables 53
2. Neutral tonicity 56
3. Broad focus 57
4. Narrow focus 59
5. Marked tonicity 61
6. The tonicity of final adjuncts 64

7. Tonicity by default 68
8. Tonicity and grammar 70

Chapter 4 Tones: the tunes of intonation 73
1. Primary and secondary tones 73
2. Primary tones: falls, rises and fall-rises 74
   2.1 Falls 75
   2.2 Rises 77
   2.3 Fall-rises 79
3. Tones and the status of information 80
   3.1 Falls and rises 80
   3.2 Fall-rises 83
4. Tones and the communicative functions 86
5. Dominance and deference in communicative functions 91
   5.1 Information, reality and belief 92
   5.2 Suasion 98
   5.3 Social exchanges 101
   5.4 Conclusion 105

Chapter 5 Tone variations 107
1. Attitudinal meanings 107
2. Intonational lexicons 108
   2.1 O'Connor and Arnold 109
   2.2 Pike 115
   2.3 Halliday and 'key' 119
   2.4 Crystal 121
   2.5 Brown 123
3 Intonational resources for attitudinal meaning 124
   3.1 Variations in tones 125
   3.2 Heads 128
      3.2.1 Low and high heads 129
      3.2.2 Wide descending and ascending heads 131
      3.2.3 Stepping heads 132
      3.2.4 Glissando heads 133
   3.3 Pre-heads 134
4. Summary 136
   4.1 Tones 136
   4.2 Heads and pre-heads 137

Chapter 6 Intonation in a model of communication 138
1. Models of communication 138
2. Intonation in the model 148
3. The intonation systems 154

References 155
Index 158