3.1.2 Excursus: Concession and Negated Causality.....	28
3.2 The prototypical realisation of Concession.....	33
3.2.1 The Cardinal Concessive schema.....	33
3.2.2 Cores, peripheries and fuzzy boundaries: The prototype theory and the theory of functional-semantic fields.....	36
3.3 Concession and other contrastive discourse relations.....	39
3.3.1 Concession and Antithesis.....	41
3.3.2 Concession and Neutral Contrast	44
3.3.3 Concession, Antithesis, Neutral Contrast and semantic opposition.....	47
3.3.4 Concession, Neutral Contrast and Adversativity.....	49
3.3.5 Summary: Contrastive relations	51

3.4	Corpus and method	53
3.4.1	Corpus material	53
3.4.2	Method of investigation.....	55
3.4.3	Corpus	59
4	Structural variations in the realisation of Concession	61
4.1	Variation in the extension of the Cardinal Concessive schema	61
4.2	Variation in the sequence of elements: the Reversed Cardinal Concessive schema.....	65
4.3	Variation in the number of participants: Pseudo-dyadic and Monadic Concessive schemata	69
4.3.1	The Pseudo-dyadic Concessive schema	69
4.3.2	The Monadic Concessive schema	70
4.3.3	Excursus: written Concessive constructions	74
4.4	Variation in the kind of marking: connectives, correlates, agreement, lexical emphasis and prosodic cues.....	77
4.4.1	Connectives: conjunctions, connective conjuncts and prepositional constructions.....	78
4.4.2	Correlates: correlative conjuncts and other expressions signalling Concession	83
4.4.3	Asyndetic Concessive constructions	94
4.4.4	Prosodic marking.....	98
4.4.4.1	Contrastive accent	101
4.4.4.2	Turn-holding: Final intonation and other devices	108
4.4.4.3	Prosodic bracketing.....	117
4.4.4.4	Summary: Prosodic marking.....	120
4.4.5	Summary: Marking of the realisation of the Concessive relation	122
4.5	Variation in the kind and size of the constitutive actions: Core and peripheries of Concession	123
4.5.1	Realisation of the initial claim (X).....	124
4.5.1.1	Kind of X.....	124
4.5.1.2	Size of X: Implicit claim	129
4.5.2	Realisation of the counter (Y) and the return to the counter (Y').....	130
4.5.2.1	Implicit counterclaims.....	130
4.5.2.2	Length of the counter and the return to the counter.....	133
4.5.2.3	Kind of extension of the counterclaim	135

4.5.2.4	Relationship between counter and return to the counter.....	137
4.5.3	Realisation of the acknowledgement (X').....	141
4.5.3.1	Relationship between the claim and the acknowledgement.....	141
4.5.3.2	Variation in the size of the acknowledgement	143
4.5.3.2.1	Core: Multi-word acknowledgements.....	144
4.5.3.2.2	Core and periphery: One-word acknowledgements	145
4.5.3.2.3	Periphery: Implicit acknowledgements.....	153
4.5.3.2.4	Missing acknowledgement.....	155
4.5.3.2.5	Summary: Explicitness of the acknowledgement – core and periphery of the Concessive relation	155
4.6	Summary: Structural variation in the realisation of the Concessive relation	158
5	Concession in action: Discourse functions of Concessive constructions	160
5.1	Discourse functions of Concessive constructions on the ideational level.....	163
5.1.1	Expressing a contrast.....	163
5.1.1.1	Emphasising a contrast.....	164
5.1.1.2	Excursus: Reporting Concession.....	165
5.1.2	Restricting the validity of a claim	166
5.1.2.1	Other-correction: restricting the validity of another speaker's claim.....	166
