INTRODUCTORY NOTE . . . . .	ii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS . . . . .	iv
CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION . . . . .	1
FOOTNOTES TO CHAPTER 1 . . . . .	16
CHAPTER 2: THE PSEUDO-CLEFT TRANSFORMATION . . . . .	19
1. The need for a pseudo-cleft transformation . .	19
2. Specific transformational analyses of the pseudo-cleft construction . . . . .	24
2.1. The deletion analysis . . . . .	24
2.2. The extraction analysis . . . . .	25
2.3. Deletion versus extraction . . . . .	26
2.3.1. The argument from selection restrictions . . . . .	27
2.3.2. The argument from the deri- vation of cleft sentences . .	34
2.3.3. The argument from negative raising . . . . .	43
3. Difficulties common to both analyses . . . . .	46
3.1. The determination of focus . . . . .	46
3.2. Non-existent deep structure sources .	48
3.3. Semantics of the deep structure source	52
3.4. Pseudo-cleft sentences with noun ante- cedents . . . . .	56

3.5. Extraposition . . . . .	63
4. Summary . . . . .	65
FOOTNOTES TO CHAPTER 2 . . . . .	67
CHAPTER 3: AMBIGUITY, CONNECTEDNESS, AND THE EXTRAC-
TION ANALYSIS . . . . .	92
1. Akmajian's treatment of ambiguity . . . . .	93
1.1. A sketch of Akmajian's treatment of ambiguity . . . . .	94
1.2. Difficulties with Akmajian's analysis	101
2. Towards the null hypothesis . . . . .	106
2.1. Syntactic connectedness in noun phrase examples . . . . .	106
2.2. Focal verb phrases and the source of do . . . . .	111
3. Summary . . . . .	115
FOOTNOTES TO CHAPTER 3 . . . . .	117
CHAPTER 4: NOMINALIZATIONS, THE TRANSFORMATIONAL
ANALYSIS, AND SYNTACTIC CONNECTEDNESS . . .	123
1. Nominalizations and the transformational analy- sis . . . . .	125
2. Base derivation and specification . . . . .	149
2.1. Specification and nominalizations . .	149
2.2. Specification and connectedness . . .	153
3. Summary . . . . .	166
FOOTNOTES TO CHAPTER 4 . . . . .	168
REMARKS TO CHAPTERS 2 AND 4 [September 1976] . . . .	189

CHAPTER 5: COPULAR SENTENCES AND AMBIGUITY . . . . .	204
1. Towards an analysis of copular sentences . . . . .	208
1.1. Terminological framework . . . . .	209
1.2. Tests for underlying word order and function in copular sentences . . . . .	225
1.2.1. Indirect questions and answers . . . . .	226
1.2.2. Modal verbs and verbs of pro- positional attitude . . . . .	228
1.2.3. Pronouns and verb agreement	229
1.2.4. Predicational noun phrases .	240
1.3. Wh -words in copular sentences . . . . .	256
2. Ambiguities in copular sentences . . . . .	262
3. Summary . . . . .	276
FOOTNOTES TO CHAPTER 5 . . . . .	277
CHAPTER 6: SOME SPECIAL PROPERTIES OF SPECIFICATIONAL PSEUDO-CLEFT SENTENCES . . . . .	294
1. Movement and deletion constraints . . . . .	297
1.1. . . . .	298
1.2. . . . .	300
1.3. . . . .	302
1.4. . . . .	305
1.5. . . . .	307
2. Tense properties . . . . .	309
2.1. Tense harmony . . . . .	310
2.2. Non-finite copula . . . . .	315

3. "Semantic" properties . . . . .	316
3.1. Modal verbs . . . . .	317
3.2. Adverbs . . . . .	318
3.3. Negation . . . . .	321
3.4. Tag questions . . . . .	321
3.5. "Transparency" . . . . .	322
4. Pronominalization . . . . .	329
5. Towards an explanation of the special properties of Specificational pseudo-cleft sentences . . . . .	332
6. Summary . . . . .	343
