

Contents

---

Preface	viii
Introduction: An Analogy	1
1 History	12
Fiction and Autobiography	12
Young David and Young Charles	14
Young Ruddy	19
Fiction and Autobiography	22
Childhood	24
Everything is Fiction: Nothing is Fiction	27
The Famous Mr Joseph Addison	29
Events	38
Fact or Fiction?	43
The Condition of England	47
The Texts	47
Ideology	56
Strategies of Writing	57
Text and Reality	60
Collingwood on History	63
Realism	65
Evangelicalism	68
Evangelicalism and the Historians	69
Evangelicalism and Fiction	75
Representative Figures	77
Power	82
Authenticity of Experience	87
Sermons	89

---

2	Crying	95
	Expressing Emotion	95
	Expression	96
	Confession and Poetry	100
	Mere Confession	103
	Anne Sexton and the Practice of Confession	107
	Forms of Courage	111
	The Case for Self-pity	114
	Shame	119
	The Rhetoric of Confession	122
	Expressing and Betraying	125
	A Theoretical Problem: Expressing the Dispersed Subject	132
3	Persuading	141
	Literature as Didactic	141
	Sermon and Poem	145
	Donne's Sermons and Donne's Poems	146
	Donne's Emotion	151
	The Audience	158
	Politics	161
	South Africa	162
	God's Stepchildren	165
	The Grass is Singing	167
	Liberals and Revolutionaries	169
	Nadine Gordimer and the Critics	178
	Political Fiction: Political Readers	184
4	Play	189
	What is a Game?	189
	Word-games	191
	Form as Play	200
	Everything is Play?	207
5	The Body of Literature	214
	The Book	214

---

Titles	223
Exploring the Edges	243
Murdering the Text	256
Notes	272
Index	289