

Table of Contents

| | |
|--|----|
| Preface | 5 |
| A Introduction: Postmodernism and Postcolonialism | 9 |
| 1 A Delicious Mixture: The "Pocomo Blend" | 9 |
| 1.1 Postmodernism avant la lettre or the Marginalization of the Central | 14 |
| 1.2 The "Pocomo Blend" | 20 |
| 1.3 Postmodernist Pitfalls | 23 |
| 1.4 Postcolonialist Taboos | 26 |
| 1.5 Hybridity | 30 |
| 1.6 Reinscription | 36 |
| 1.7 Textualizing the "Actual" | 40 |
| B A Proliferation of Spaces: The Disruptive Spatiality of the Chutney | 47 |
| 2 The Proliferation of Spaces | 47 |
| 2.1 The Demise of Origin(ality) | 47 |
| 2.2 The Celebration of Rootlessness | 58 |
| 2.3 Chameleon Identities in Bharati Mukherjee's Leave It to Me and Wife | 72 |
| 3 The Collective Dream of the Nation | 90 |
| 3.1 Trans-national Havens | 91 |

| | | |
|-----|--|-----|
| 3.2 | 'Imaginary Homelands' in Mukherjee's The Tiger's Daughter and Leave It to Me | 101 |
| 3.3 | The Marginalization of the Whole: Re-reading the Nation from an Immigrant Perspective in In the Skin of a Lion | 109 |
| C | A Proliferation of Histories: The Disruptive Temporality of the Chutney..... | 123 |
| 4 | The Language Metaphor | 123 |
| 4.1 | The Issue of Misrepresentation..... | 125 |
| 4.2 | Postmodernist Miniaturism: The Pointilism of Open Forms | 142 |
| 4.3 | The Celebration of Enigma in Midnight's Children and The English Patient | 149 |
| 4.4 | The Unpickability of the Elephantine..... | 154 |
| 5 | The Privatization of History..... | 165 |
| 5.1 | The Person of the Cook..... | 165 |
| 5.2 | Midnight's Children and "Memory's Truth" | 178 |
| 5.3 | "A Perverse and Solitary Desire": The Idiosyncratic Chutney of the Past | 188 |
| 5.4 | History Light: Running in the Family and Midnight's Children | 195 |
| 5.5 | The Primacy of the Private..... | 205 |
| 5.6 | Synthesis: The Moor's Last Sigh and The English Patient | 216 |

| | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| 6 | Agency..... | 223 |
| 6.1 | History and the Contingency of Brain Fever: The Preclusion of Political Agency | 223 |
| | Structural Eclipse - Chapatis Taken for Wonders - Pork Chops and alu gobi : The (Un)Translatability of Cultural Difference in Bharati Mukherjee's Jasmine - The Distrust of the Collective - An Inventory of Traces: Spilled Sugar, Birds and Mega-Mayhem | |
| 6.2 | Towards a Politics of Small Forms..... | 275 |
| | Historiographies in Disguise - The Culinarization of History: Midnight's Children - "Songs of Snail Light" - A Bystander's Embroideries in Shame | |
| D | Conclusion..... | 300 |
| | Works Cited..... | 309 |