

Contents

	Preface	ix
ONE	Virtue and the Tasks of Criticism	3
	Premises	3
	Virtue as Literary Subject	12
	Literature, Discourse, and the Adversarial Model	21
	The Literary Work and Collective Understanding	32
TWO	Virtue: A Short History	45
	Classical and Christian Virtue	45
	Virtue Fragmented	54
	Virtue Against Itself	62
	Displacements, Substitutions	67
	Virtue Bureaucratized	75
	Virtue (Heroic) in Default	81
	Virtue in the Eye of Criticism	86
THREE	“Our Means Will Make Us Means”: Hamlet and All’s Well That Ends Well	89
FOUR	“What Do Other Men Matter to the Passionate Man?": The Charterhouse of Parma	124
FIVE	“Why Does One Thing Happen and Not Another?": The Man Without Qualities	158

viii Contents

SIX	The Analogies of Lyric: Shelley, Yeats, Frank O'Hara	223
	Afterword: On Some Arguments of Yves Bonney	274
	Index	281