CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
List of Illustrations	xiii
Preliminary Discourse: Khuṭbat al-kitāb	1
chapter one Seismic Islamica: Politics and Scope of a Medieval Republic of Letters	21
Knowledge under Duress 25
Transmitters of Knowledge 27
The Mongol Court as Site for Debate: Al-Taftazānī and al-Jurjānī	30
Dynamic Production and Producers 32
The Travelling Qaṣīdah in a World-System 34
Ghazal Conversations 38
A Mantle for Islamic Nationhood: Genealogy of a Subgenre 40
The Ode as Medium of Sociability 42
A Language for a Republic? 45
Mobilizing Mourning Rituals 48
Reinvented Lexical Communities 50
Vagrant Intellectuals 53
A Dialogic Space for the Republic 56
chapter two A Massive Conversation Site: The Word Empire	59
A Prototype for a Republic of Letters 60
Structural Components of a Republic of Letters 65

The "Rattle" of Languages 68
The Rise of Polyglotism 69
The Human Agent as Structural Component 72
Lexical Authentication for Imperial Rule 76
Cairo beyond Tīmūr 78
Cultural Production as a Structural Component 79
Authors and Preachers in Conversation 82
Archaeological Inventories 85
The Battle for Lexical Hegemony 85
chapter three The Lexicographic Turn in Cultural Capital	89
Models for Nahḍah 94
The Fight for Culture: Compendiums and Commentaries 97
Markers of a Complex Phenomenon 103
Private Libraries and Scholarly Networks 113
chapter four The Context of an Islamic Literate Society: Epistemological Shifts	119
Terms of Exchange: Problems of Authorized Transmission 121
Writing a Contemporary Cultural Scene 122
Cultural Trafficking in a Communicative Sphere 126
Cultural Production as Commodity 129
Diversity and Stratification 130
Institutionalized Knowledge Undermined 131
The Hard Politics of Rhetoric: Decentering the Sacral 135
The Verbal Subtext of Hegemonic Discourse 136
The Breakdown of Representation 138
Rhetoric for the State 141
chapter five Superfluous Proliferation or Generative Innovation?	147
The Transgeneric Medium: Hazz al-quhūf 149
The Subject of Parody and Contrafaction 152
Countryside and City: Textual Juxtaposition 154
The Polymath as Knowledge Subject 156

Shifting Grounds in the Acquisition of Knowledge 158
The Sacral as a Life Force: Al-Ḥillī's Badī'iyyah 161
From Court to Reading Communities 164
Keys to Sciences? 166
Textual Communities and Cultural Production 167
chapter six Disputation in Rhetoric	175
In Pursuit of Adab 176
The Littérateur's Anecdotal Network 185
An Open-Market Cultural Economy 188
Speculative Theology at Work 189
The Encyclopedic East 190
Defining a Cultural Milieu: Multiple Genealogies 192
Al-Ṣafadī's Navigations: Theology and Traditionalists 194
Literary Venues 196
Logic, Grammar, and Jurisprudence 200
Traditionalist Alarm at Translating the Greeks 202
chapter seven Translation, Theology, and the Institutionalization of Libraries	205
	203
Contentious Theological Grounds 213
The Oneiric Imagination 215
Grammatica: The Domain of the Lords of the Pen 217
Grammatica: A Comprehensive Framework for Knowledge 219
The Divine in Governance 221
Inventories of Individual Readings 224
Liberating the Islamic Canon 227
Implications of Textualization: The Qur'ān 229
Textual Archaeology as an Independent Pursuit 230
Reconstructing the Literary Republican Model 233
Literary Agency in a Global Sphere 235
Individual Inventories in a Global Sphere 237
Public Acknowledgment of Readings 240
The Encyclopedic Literary and Social Consortium 242

chapter eight Professions in Writing: Street Poetry and the Politics of Difference	245
	22 13
Verbal Escapades 248
Craftsmen's Poetry 250
Poetry in Islamic Knowledge 251
The Esoteric and the Discursive 252
Poetic Production in a "Democratic" Space 256
Artisans as Poets 262
Street Poetry 263
Sufis in the Public Domain 270
Homoerotics? 272
Ibn Ḥajjāj's Poetics 273
Homoerotic Compilations 275
Delicacy and Wine Rituals 277
Exploring Islamic Poetics 280
Sufi Šāheds and Homoerotics 281
The Carnivalesque Street 286
Unease at Sufi Love Language 288
Esoteric Poetics 296
Between Sufi Verse and Badī'iyyāt 298
Sacral Itineraries 300
Conclusion: Al-Khātimah	305
Appendix: Tīmūr's Debate with Damascene Theologians outside the Gates of Damascus (803/1401)	313
Notes	323
Bibliography	393
Index	425