
Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
Dialogue and discourse	1
Conversation and dramatic dialogue	3
Dialogue, interaction, utterance	13
1 The ethnography of speaking	18
Scenes of speech	18
Deixis	26
Speech events in drama	28
The participant framework	30
Speakers and personae	37
Participant configurations and distribution in drama	47
Verbalizing space	48
Time in language	60
Time in drama	62
2 Ethnomethodology and conversation analysis	76
The systematics of turn-taking: general	78
Sequencing of turns: general	84
Drama and the systematics of turn-taking	91
Turn change options	92
Turn constructional strategies: distribution, order and length	114
3 Turn sequencing	122
Turn sequencing in drama	122
Intimacy sequences	142
Alternative sequences	149
Repetition	152
Openings and closings	159

4	Pragmatics	164
	Preliminaries: general frameworks	164
	Politeness phenomena	189
	Pragmatics and drama: general	196
	The intentional self	198
	Locutionary acts	203
	Conventionall/institutional acts	207
	Inter-personal acts and the trials of communication	223
	Politeness and power	240
5	Gender and language	245
	Women's talk	245
	Gender and its discontents	265
	Gender and dramatic discourse	279
	Bibliography	306
	Index	323