

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
1 To Succeed Is to Fail: A New Dislocation	3
2 Irony and Indeterminacy in the Late Enlightenment	28
3 Irony and the Uses of Death from Wordsworth to Le Guin	49
4 Irony and a Master Stylist	68
5 Golden Structural Unities within the Pulp Tradition and in William Golding	86
6 Two Late Dislocated Hard Writers: SF's Compromise	102
Afterword	124
Bibliography	129
Index	139