

Advances in Group Work Research

CONTENTS

The Group Work Research Dilemma	1
Aaron M. Brower
Sheldon D. Rose
Client Perceptions of the Effectiveness of Divorce Adjustment Groups	9
William J. Bell
John W. Charping
Jean B. Strecker
Method	12
Results and Discussion	15
Implications	29
Conclusion	31
A Comparison of Two Types of Pregroup Preparation for Men Who Batter	33
Richard M. Tolman
Gauri Bhosley
Models of Pregroup Preparation for Men Who Batter	34
Program Description	36
Method	36
Results	39
Discussion	41
Teaching Clients to Cope with Stress: The Effectiveness of Structured Group Stress Management Training	45
Richard M. Tolman
Sheldon D. Rose
Method	48
Results	57
Discussion	60

Life Skills Training with Mothers of Handicapped Children	67
Maura A. Kirkham
Robert F. Schilling II
Life Skills Training	69
Design	70
Description of Interventions	73
Results	76
Discussion	81
Directions for Research	83
Conclusion	85
The Effect of Process and Structured Content on Outcome in Stress Management Groups	89
Dale Whitney
Sheldon D. Rose
Introduction	89
Structured Content of Stress Management Training	90
Group Process in Stress Management Training	93
Method	94
Results	98
Conclusions	101
Four Studies Toward an Empirical Foundation for Group Therapy	105
John V. Flowers
Curtis D. Booarem
Study 1	108
Study 2	110
Study 3	112
Study 4	114
Discussion	118